Alaskan Says He Will Fight For Hawaiian Statehood

Train Strikes Bus, 2 Killed

Driver, 6 Children Injured in Tragedy At Ontario Crossing

Essex, Ontario—A New York Central passenger train running 30 minutes late sliced a school bus in half at a rural grade crossing today, killing two boys aboard the bus.

The crossing is three miles east of Essex and about 17 miles east of Detroit in the southernmost tip of the province of Ontario.

The bus was carrying 10 students to the Holy Name parochial school in Essex.

The train hit the rear of the bus where the two boys who were killed were sitting. They were David Purvis and Paul Bossey.

The driver, Albert Slacht, and four children were treated at the Essex professional center.

They were Roger Rivest, 9; Julie Bena, 13, her sister Jeannie Bena, 10, and George Rivest, 5.

Raymond King was taken to a Windsor hospital. It was believed he had a broken leg.

Dr. D. W. Clare said none of the children brought into Essex was injured seriously.

The grade crossing is marked but not protected by crossing gates.

Seaton Wants to Quit Cabinet Post

Honolulu—Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton said today he hoped to resign soon and return to private business.

Seaton, who arrived here last night for the western regional Republican conference, gave no date for his resignation.

He told newsmen he wanted to quit his cabinet post in the near future "so I can make up for time I have been missing with my family."

Wives of Stars Reveal Reactions In New Feature

How do the non-professional wives of top motion picture stars react to the adulation lavished upon their husbands by female movie fans? Are they jealous, irritated or resigned? Do they wish their husbands were in any business but acting—or do they enjoy shining in reflected glory?

Dorothy Roe, Associated Press women's editor, will answer many of these questions in a special 8-part feature which begins in today's Post-Crescent on Page A-15.

She spent weeks in the movie capital, preparing sparkling portraits of the women whose sole careers are being the wives of some of filmdom's leading men. In the series you'll meet the wives of Yul Brynner, Gregory Peck, Robert Young, Robert Cummings, Kirk Douglas, Alan Ladd, Dean Martin and Louis Jourdan.

Sen. Gruening Praises Proxmire, Wiley; Won't Comment on Views

BY BETTY KILICH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

One of Alaska's first senators has promised he will put forth as much effort in attaining statehood for Hawaii as he did for his home territory.

Sen. Ernest Gruening, a Democrat, was interviewed at Lawrence college Thursday afternoon after he appeared before a student convocation.

Chances are good for Hawaiian statehood, he felt, and predicted the islands would become a part of the United States during the second session of the 86th congress.

"I'll do everything I can to bring about its statehood," the former Alaska governor said.

He commended Wisconsin Sens. Proxmire and Wiley for their work in the statehood campaign.

Electoral Vote

The senator, who has had a long record in Alaskan and Democratic politics, thought chances of electing a president from Alaska were as good as electing a president from any state with a small electoral vote.

There's no immediate prospect for an Alaskan president, he felt, but the potential will increase as the population expands—and he expects a considerable influx of new residents, particularly since statehood has been accomplished.

Sen. Gruening saw no reason why an Alaskan shouldn't be included in the cabinet if a Democrat is elected president in 1960 and, he predicted, a Democrat will be named to the nation's top post.

Gruening wouldn't venture a forecast on his party's possibilities.

Try to Settle Press Strike

Publishers and Union Resume Bargaining Talks

New York—A newspaperless New York today awaited the outcome of a negotiation session aimed at ending a deliverers' strike at the city's nine major dailies.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner was waiting in the wings as the Publishers Association of New York City and the union prepared for another round of bargaining.

The mayor, after meeting yesterday with Federal Mediator Frank H. Brown, said he had offered to help out in any way he could. The mediation service already has joined in negotiations.

Meanwhile, shuttered newsstands and vacant stares on the subway and buses were continuing evidence that New Yorkers were without their favorite daily.

Some of the news was getting through to them as radio and television stations expanded coverage.

The New York Central railroad was distributing handbill-like digests to commuters with news supplied by the Associated Press as a public service.

Senator Raps U. S. Reduction In Manpower

Georgian Says Hearings to be Held on Cutbacks

Washington—Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said today the administration is wrong in ordering the armed forces' manpower cut, but that he doubts congressional critics can do much about it.

Russell, chairman of the senate armed services committee, said his group would start hearings early next year on the cutback, and on whether the top military people believe it to be safe.

He said he considers the planned reductions "are penny wise and pound foolish."

Opposes Cuts

"But I don't know of anything affirmative the congress can do," he said. He conceded the White House has the authority to refuse to spend money even if congress appropriates it to permit a bigger uniformed service.

"You can't impeach the president, and he seems determined to increase foreign aid and reduce the defense establishment," Russell continued.

"If I had my way I'd reverse this, because we're inviting trouble all around the world with these reductions. We boast we are the richest nation, but are unable to maintain our defense establishment."

Farm Bureau Hits At Legislative Action by Court

Boston—The American Farm Bureau federation has accused the U.S. Supreme court of invading the legislative field and has called upon congress to put the tribunal back in its place.

In resolutions adopted at the closing session Thursday of its 4-day convention, the big farm organization also made a plea for protection of state, local and individual rights against what it called encroachment of the federal government.

"We are deeply concerned," the bureau said, "with respect to the tendency of the U.S. Supreme court to overrule state laws and to enact legislation by judicial action."

The convention also took a slap at both the executive and legislative branches, claiming they had failed to resist the court.

Two of the three teamster monitors complained Hoffa was ignoring their cleanup orders. Lettis, who described the monitors as officers of the court, warned: "Remedies are not lacking in our judicial process if the orders of the court are violated, disregarded or ignored."

Union Agent Held For Arson Trial

Flint, Mich.—Jack Thompson, 41, teamsters union business agent in Flint, Camp Grant Sentinel and the Camp Edwards News, was arrested today on a charge of arson in the cleaning shop fire where unionist Frank Kierdorf became a human torch.

Thompson had been held for investigation shortly after the Aug. 3 fire where authorities say Kierdorf, another Flint teamsters business agent, was fatally burned.

However, Thompson was released five days later when Genesee County Prosecutor Jerome O'Rourke declined to file a charge.

Today O'Rourke said that as a result of combined investigating efforts by state police and Oakland and Genesee county officers, "sufficient evidence has been produced" to warrant prosecution of Thompson.

Teamsters to Fight Ruling

Appealing Court Order Requiring Reform Action

Miami Beach—The teamsters braced for battle today in the face of a federal court threat to oust James Hoffa as their president unless they obey orders to clean house.

The executive board of the huge union voted to appeal U.S. District Judge F. Dickinson Lettis' ruling that the teamsters must heed reform recommendations made by court-appointed monitors.

Hoffa, militant leader of 1½ million teamsters, didn't seem worried by the court's vigorously worded opinion.

"We will appeal all the way," he said. "We've done nothing contrary to good unionism."

Near-Disaster at Takeoff

Balloonists Over Atlantic

Santa Cruz de Tenerife, Canary Islands—A small balloon took off early today with four daring Britons aboard in an attempt to cross the Atlantic. Only cool heads saved the departure from disaster.

A 16-knot wind dragged the gondola-boat across the beach and 500 yards out to sea before the crew could jettison enough ballast to start the rise into the air.

Crowd Cheers Balloonists

A small crowd on the beach broke into cheers for the balloon—The Small World—and her crew of four—Arnold Beaupre Eiloart, a British businessman who is expedition chief; his son, Timothy, a Cambridge student and radioman; Colin Mudie, pilot, and his wife, Rosemary, co-pilot, photographer and cook.

The balloon's destination is Barbados, in the British West Indies, 3,000 miles away.

Eiloart expects the crossing to take from 10 days to three weeks, but the party has concentrated food for three months. If successful, it will be the first free-balloon crossing of the Atlantic.

Under the patronage of Prince Philip, husband of Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, the flight is to study weather conditions and wind currents.

The balloon is 46 feet in diameter with a capacity for 53,000 cubic feet of hydrogen. It is made of reinforced plastic.

Beneath it is slung a plastic boat, 15½ feet long and 7½ feet wide, which serves as a gondola for the crew or as a lifeboat should the balloon be forced down.

Vanes For Guidance

The crew plans to drift along at about 1,000 feet sitting face to face, two abreast in the gondola.

A series of vanes on opposite sides of the gondola to guide the craft are operated by four sets of pedals. The pedals also operate pumps to bring up sea water for ballast or drinking after conversion by a small distilling apparatus aboard.

A small generator will convert chemicals into hydrogen to make up for gas lost through evaporation and also will power Mrs. Mudie's cooking stove.

"We will appeal all the way," he said. "We've done nothing contrary to good unionism."

Hoffa said the union will cancel plans for a convention in Chicago next March if necessary. The court forbade a convention that soon on the ground the union hasn't yet cleaned house or prepared for "return of control to the rank, and file membership through democratic processes."

Seeks Re-election

Hoffa had called the convention in an attempt to have himself reelected and bring an end to the monitoring.

The teamster executives had planned to wind up their meeting Thursday but after the court order decided to remain at Miami Beach at least until Monday.

The union's lawyers will go to Washington to seek an order staying Lettis' ruling.

"As of now there is no requirement, according to our lawyers, to change operations of the teamsters union," Hoffa said.

Two of the three teamster monitors complained Hoffa was ignoring their cleanup orders. Lettis, who described the monitors as officers of the court, warned: "Remedies are not lacking in our judicial process if the orders of the court are violated, disregarded or ignored."

See Use of Force Lead To Conflict

Moscow—The Soviet Union put in another bid last night for a summit meeting on causes of international tension. It included the Berlin situation but ruled out discussion of German reunification.

The statement from the official news agency Tass also warned that any western use of force to maintain access to Berlin would be met by Soviet force and would touch off a nuclear war.

Some western officials have proposed that Berlin be discussed only in connection with the entire German unification problem. Tass renewed the Kremlin stand against negotiating on reunification and also rejected again the western demand for all-German free elections.

The Soviet Union repeated, however, its readiness to talk about a World War II peace treaty for Germany. Tass added that Russia stands for a meeting of the heads of state, on the condition that east and west are equally represented, with the aim of "discussing ripened questions of consequence (toward) easing international tension."

Negotiations Proposed

The communists contend that German unification should be negotiated by the East and West German governments, meeting as equals.

Preliminary negotiations for a summit conference broke down last June when the Kremlin published secret minutes of meetings in Moscow. The west was insisting on searching talks at a lower level to insure likelihood of agreement before the heads of governments gathered. Russia wanted to get the government chiefs to do the actual trading.

The west also had insisted on restricting any summit conference to the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union, with possibly a few neutrals. It had rejected Soviet efforts to include such small communist nations as Poland and Czechoslovakia for voting equality.

The statement reiterated that the Soviet Union will transfer its occupation powers to the East Germans in six months regardless of whether the west accepts Premier Khrushchev's proposal to make West Berlin an unarmored free city.

Threat of War

Chief of these powers is control of the western allies' supply routes to their garrisons in West Berlin. To talk of allied counteraction against any new communist blockade, Tass asked:

"Is it not clear that any attempt to break into Berlin by force would mean an attack on the (communist) German democratic republic and also its Warsaw pact allies?" (The Warsaw pact is the military

Cuba Declared in State of Emergency

Move Gives President Batista Sweeping Powers to Deal With Rebellion Led by Fidel Castro

Havana —UP— Cuba is under a state of national emergency again today, giving President Fulgencio Batista even more sweeping powers to combat the rebellion led by Fidel Castro.

The senate last night approved a government bill establishing a state of emergency for 45 days. The house of representatives passed the bill Tuesday.

The senate vote was delayed Tuesday when opposition members walked out, preventing a quorum. The vote last night, with 36 of 54 senators present, was 28-8.

Sweeping Power

Under the state of emergency Batista can decree any measures he deems necessary to deal with Castro's rebellion. The last such period, lasting 90 days, ended in July. It was not renewed then because presidential elections were being held in November, and Batista was sensitive about opposition criticism that the government was using emergency regulations against opposition candidates.

In the election Batista's candidate, former Prime Minister Andres Rivero Aguiro, was elected as expected.

It was believed that one of Batista's first steps now would be new taxes to support the costly war against Castro.

Financial Collapse

Castro's followers have disrupted the economy in the east Cuban areas they occupy. But in a broadcast yesterday they hinted they might take measures to prevent complete financial collapse. The rebels said that the economy must have some freedom if they are to win.

The rebels also called on neighboring countries to break with Batista's government and recognize their movement. They announced the arrival in Cuba of the president of the rebel regime appointed by Castro, Dr. Manuel Urrutia Lleó. A magistrate in the east Cuban province of Oriente, he was fired by the government two years ago because he insisted that captured rebels should go free. Since then he has been in New York, Miami and Venezuela.

Diefenbaker Cuts Short Visit to New Zealand

Auckland, New Zealand —UP— Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker cut short a visit to New Zealand and left by plane Thursday night for Canada because of the illness of his 86-year-old mother.

Diefenbaker already was on the homeward leg of a world tour but had planned originally to stay in New Zealand until Monday.

His mother has been in a Saskatoon, Sask., hospital since breaking a hip last spring. She suffered a relapse Wednesday but was reported much better last night.

Thinks Convict's Tale of Killing Official Is Hoax

Montgomery, Ala. —UP— "I think it's all a hoax," says Alabama Gov.-elect John Patterson of a Virginia convict's confession that he killed Patterson's father during a robbery in 1954.

Commenting Thursday night for the first time on the statement by Calvin W. Pruitt, 28-year-old Alabama native serving long-term sentences in Virginia, Patterson said it appeared false to him. However, he plans to investigate it thoroughly.

The 37-year-old attorney general, who gained the post after the murder of his father, Albert Patterson, reported two of his assistants have gone to Virginia state penitentiary at Richmond to question Pruitt.

Clean Up Vice

The elder Patterson was killed shortly after he had been nominated attorney general. He had promised, if elected, to clean up vice-ridden Phenix City.

In Phenix City, meanwhile, unidentified official sources have hinted that at least a part of the murder gun, previously missing, has been found.

They also revealed that witnesses who had declined to come forward earlier did so after the conviction of former chief Deputy Sheriff Albert Fuller on a murder charge.

Their testimony, the sources said, reinforced the state's case against Fuller who had been charged along with former solicitor Arch Ferrell and former Atty. Gen. Si Garrett.

Fuller was given a life term, Ferrell was acquitted and Garrett never stood trial.

New Testimony

Based on the weapon and the new testimony, the officials said they were skeptical of Pruitt's confession.

Pruitt's wife and two small children now live in his native Haleyville, Ala. She confirmed his story that he was in the army at Ft. Benning at the time of the shooting, but she expressed doubt that he had done it.

The former soldier now is serving 20, 30 and life sentences in Virginia and Mrs. Pruitt said "he just wants the chair instead of spending his life in prison."

Admits Taking Bank Funds For 7 Years

Orange, Calif. —UP— FBI agents say an Orange bank official has admitted taking $216,000 of his bank's funds over a period of seven years.

Lynn Arnett, 39, head cashier of the First National Bank of Orange, was arrested on a charge of misapplying $22,500 of bank funds to his own accounts.

He admitted taking the larger sum when arraigned later before the U. S. commissioner. His bail was set at $25,000.

"I'm glad it's all over," Arnett told newsmen. "My main regret is for my family. We have three children."

Arnett said his financial woes started eight years ago when he lost $5,000 in a bowling alley venture. He said he dipped into bank funds to replace the money and eventually was caught up in a swirl of transactions in a vain effort to cover other mounting losses.

D. K. Brown, FBI agent in charge, said the misapplication of funds involves a fictitious deposit Arnett made in a business account maintained by him for a boat manufacturing concern he operated at Costa Mesa.

The shortage was not discovered until last Wednesday, when a bank employee noted an irregularity. Bank examiners were in the building on a routine examination and immediately started work on his accounts.

James Beam, assistant trust officer of the bank, said Arnett's procedure was to tear up a customer's deposit slip and then enter a like amount in his own account. Later, Arnett would restore the customer's name to the deposit slip and credit him with the proper deposit.

Earth Tremors Force Italians in Old City To Stay Out All Night

Siena, Italy —UP— After shivering all night in the open, hundreds of residents of this ancient walled city moved back today into homes evacuated because of continuing earth tremors.

The 38th earth shock in seven days struck the city Thursday. There were no casualties, but walls were cracked and windows shattered.

The night passed with no new shocks. Schools were kept closed in fear there would be new tremors during the day.

The suffering of those in the open during the night was increased by a cold wind which reached almost 60 miles an hour.

Merriman Twins Hope Story Stirs Conflict Over Time of Fire

Brothers in Good Health Year After Historic Kidney Transplant, Surgery

Oklahoma City —UP— Christmas year should be the merriest of all for the Merriman twins — Bill and Sam.

The reason for this happy outlook is that the 27-year-old brothers are in good health although each has only one kidney. And, actually, both of them belong to Sam.

It happened this way:

Bill was gravely ill from diseased kidneys. His doctors told him his only chance to live would be to take one of Sam's kidneys and transfer it to him. Then, if the kidney functioned properly another operation would be made to remove his bad kidneys.

Happy To Help

Sam was happy to help his brother whom he had seen waste away gradually.

"It's the least I can do," he said.

One year ago today the first operation was performed at Virginia Medical college in Richmond. It was a success and Sam recovered quickly. Bill stayed on for the more serious surgery — taking out his diseased kidneys. This too was successful although medical authorities said it was the first time they had accomplished this with only one operation.

Bill, too, regained normal health several months ago and is now studying for a master's degree in accounting and a n a g e m e n t at Oklahoma City university. Sam gave up a career in the air force to return here with his family.

The twins' wives are named Helen. Bill has two youngsters, Kathy, 3, and David, 4. Sam has a 2-year-old son, Danny.

Family Reunion

A family reunion will highlight the Christmas celebration at Bill's home.

"We are really looking forward to a happy Christmas," Bill said, "and we are more than thankful for the many kindnesses during our period of trouble, especially by the people of Richmond."

At a Thanksgiving gathering, the twins' sister, Mrs. R. L. Schuacher expressed the family's gratitude.

"We just can't tell everybody how grateful we are to them," she said. "So many people did so many things during that rough time."

Detroit Mayor Finds Out How Hard Santa Works Before Dec. 25

Detroit —UP— Mayor Carl F. Ingraham no longer answers his office phone with a hearty "Ho-Ho-Ho," and his staff once again is devoting full time to civic affairs in suburban Birmingham.

To help children talk to Santa Claus, officials set up telephone listing which when dialed would respond with a hearty chuckle, admonitions to be good, and a promise of a Merry Christmas.

Advertisements of the service carried Ingraham's phone number by mistake. He received 60 phone calls the first day.

After 30 or 40 calls, Ingraham enlisted his secretary as "Mrs. Santa Claus." Recreation department officials also sent over aid until residents were advised of Santa's correct number.

Smoldering Jealousy Over Leader Seen as Cause of Dynamiting

Two Former Members of Religious Cult Leave Recordings of Views

Chatsworth, Calif. —UP— Long-smouldering jealousy of the former shipyard worker who became master of a religious cult was seen today as the cause of the dynamite death of 10 in the cult's headquarters.

So deep was the bitterness of two former members of the Fountain of the World cult toward its founder, Krishna Venta, they willingly blew themselves to bits to carry out their plot to kill him, report the police.

Seething Emotions

Detectives investigating Wednesday's bombing have uncovered a snake-pit of seething emotions beneath the cult's calm surface of piety and faith.

In tape recordings left as their final testament before they went on their murderous mission, Peter Kamenoff and Ralph Muller accused Venta of immoral acts with women members of the cult.

From other sources the investigators learned that Kamenoff had been expelled from the cult after his wife complained to Venta that he had hit her, and that Muller was "excommunicated" because he tried to get his wife to leave the fold.

A year ago Muller went to a Los Angeles newspaper and said he wanted to "expose" Venta. "Everybody up there is afraid of him," he said.

Members of the cult drew a different picture. They told investigators that both men were jealous of Venta and tried to found a rival cult.

They were the last of a group who brought wastepaper from the classrooms to empty it into drums. He warned them to get out, ran up to a second floor classroom and broke down a door giving partial access to a fire escape. The pupils and the teacher fled down the escape, he related.

Next, he said, he ran to the front of a second floor corridor and because the smoke was so dense broke out two windows, slashing his left wrist. He stumbled down the stairway and outside and then he remembered of struggling with some person who wanted to put him in an ambulance.

"Muller and Kamenoff were egomaniacs," said one, a woman known as Priest Mary. "They wanted to run things. They wanted to be masters. They did not want to play lesser roles."

Venta's Slaves

In their recordings, Muller and Kamenoff described the cultists as Venta's slaves and said their mission was to free them. Muller's statement ends with the words:

"Dear God, give us this night freedom or death."

Muller and Kamenoff carried 20 sticks of dynamite in a canvas bag into the sleeping headquarters. They were known to have seen Venta and argued with him. Moments afterward Venta, seven of his followers and Muller and Kamenoff died in a tremendous explosion.

Venta's wife, known as Mother Ruth, arrived from the cult's Alaska colony yesterday to take charge. She said a new leader will be selected, but added:

"He will not be the Master. There is only one."

No Organization Among Farmers, Co-op Head Says

Madison —UP— The decline of farm political power was blamed Thursday by a leader of the cooperative movement on the lack of organization among farmers.

Truman Torgerson, Madison, president of the Wisconsin Council of Agricultural Cooperatives, said it would be fatal for individual farmers to stand alone. He addressed 200 members of the Southern Wisconsin Breeders Cooperative.

New officers elected by the organization, which claims 6,338 members, are Shirley Pethick, Sullivan, vice president, and Julian Warren, Burlington, treasurer. Russel Fox of Waterloo was reelected president.

Democrats Pick 1959 County Party Officers

Mrs. Cherkasky
Wins Second Term
As Chairman

Mrs. William Cherkasky, Appleton, was reelected chairman of the Outagamie county Democratic party Thursday night.

Her name was the only one proposed by the nominating committee. The committee presented one name for each of 11 posts up for election.

Dick F. Zingsheim, Appleton, objected to the list of single candidates. He asked that the nominating committee be instructed to list at least two candidates for each office.

Explains Rules
Mrs. Cherkasky told Zingsheim the rules did not prevent the nominating committee from selecting only one nominee for each post. Nominations could be made from the floor, she said.

Zingsheim then nominated Albert Kobussen, Little Chute, former county chairman. Kobussen was not at the meeting.

Outcome of the balloting: Mrs. Cherkasky, 69; Kobussen, 1.

Other Officers
Other officers elected by unanimous ballot were William Riker, Appleton, First District vice chairman; Harold Beresford, town of Liberty, Second District vice chairman; Sylvester Lenz, Kimberly, recording secretary; Mrs. Lenz, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Gretchen Liethen, Appleton, treasurer; Mrs. Christine Wise, Appleton, cor-

Elect More Democrats, State Chairman Asks

Calls for Defeat of Byrnes, Van Pelt
In Talk to Record Outagamie Turnout

The objective of Wisconsin Democrats during the next two years should be election of more members of the party to state and national office in 1960, State Chairman Patrick responding secretary; W. W. Smith, Appleton, publicity chairman; Mrs. Cecil Lockery, Appleton, membership chairman; Mrs. Lenore Kern, Appleton, women's affairs secretary; and Lester Balliet, Appleton, finance chairman.

Lucey declared in a talk to the Outagamie organization in Appleton Thursday night. A record crowd of 70 members attended the session.

Prime objective of Eighth District Democrats should be the defeat of Rep. John W. Byrnes, he said. He also called for the defeat of Rep. William K. Van Pelt in the Sixth district.

Other Goals
Other election goals, Lucey said, are election of a Democratic secretary of state, a state senate controlled by the party and increased representation in courthouse offices.

The November election this year showed Wisconsin is on the road back to a liberal tradition, Lucey asserted. He accused past Republican administrations of leaving a "terrible mess" for the Democrats to clean up.

Recent budget hearings have proven the state administration is in worse shape than Gov.-elect Gaylord Nelson said it was during the campaign, he claimed. He predicted Nelson would continue to uncover examples of GOP ineptness.

Stifle UW
With a Democratic administration in power, it will be shown the Republicans stifled academic growth at the University of Wisconsin, he charged. Lucey claimed conservatives on the board of regents have choked off intellectual inquiry. He promised the Democrats would make use of faculty members as advisors. He called for increased organization on the precinct level and a forceful party membership drive.

Submit Four Plans for High School

Building Committee
Favors Construction Of Second Floor

Brillion — Four high school building proposals were presented by the building committee Tuesday night.

The proposals will be submitted to a public meeting in the near future.

Suggestions included construction of a new high school at another location or razing the present structure and construction of a new building on the site. The third idea was to build a 9-room elementary school with an activity room and convert the present 6-room unit into high school classrooms.

The last plan was to build a second floor on the present elementary school. It would include a home economics room and five academic classrooms. Also included would be a music and industrial arts wing and office and storage space.

A total of $395,005 is available for bonding.

Construction for Proposal Four would be cement block interior with brick exterior.

The building committee favors the last proposal. It will meet again Jan. 13 to make plans for the public hearing. An artist's sketch of the second floor unit will be shown.

Talkative Vagrant Finds a Home for At Least 60 Days

Paterson, N. J. — (P) — His thirst reasonably quenched, a talkative vagrant has found himself a home for the next 60 days.

Richard K. Jones, 30, was assured of accommodations in county jail after he was found guilty of taking $84.50 from a tavern keeper after talking the bartender to sleep.

Jones didn't even have the price of a beer when he sat down in Augie's tavern Tuesday night. But owner Augustine Ingino bought him a beer and loaned him $2 so he could buy more drinks.

Jones started talking, and when he stopped, Ingino was asleep. That's when Jones moved behind the bar to the cash register, police said.

Ingino awoke, notified police, and was advised to tour taverns in search of a man having a good time.

No longer drinking beer, Jones was finally arrested in another saloon.

14 Reindeer, Caribou Arrive in Washington

Washington — (P) — Fourteen reindeer and a caribou arrived here Thursday as a Christmas gift to the nation from Alaska, but soon there'll be more.

Eight of the reindeer are expecting little ones.

The herd traveled 5,100 miles from Kotzebue, Alaska, to Washington by plane, railroad, ship and truck. They'll take part in the annual pageant of peace and then become permanent residents of the National Zoological park.

3 Prelates in Rome To Receive Red Hats

Rome — (P) — Three Roman Catholic prelates from the United States arrived in Rome Thursday to receive the red hats of cardinals.

Archbishops Richard Cushing of Boston and John O'Hara of Philadelphia, and Msgr. Amleto Cicognani, Vatican delegate to the United States, flew from Boston in a chartered airliner.

They will become cardinals Monday at a consistory called by Pope John XXIII.

Ball Fans Get Pick Of 4 Games Weekly

Milwaukee Braves to Blackout Fox Cities For Telecasts of Home Games, Cairnes Says

BY JINGO
Fox Cities baseball fans will get their pick of two major league games twice a week next season.
Both major networks — CBS-TV and NBC-TV — will carry games on both Saturday and Sunday afternoons.
CBS-TV went twice-a-week late last season and NBC-TV announced earlier this week it would follow suit. Both started last season with games on Saturday only.
NBC-TV, in making its announcement, said it would carry 50 home games of six clubs. It identified the teams as the Milwaukee Braves, Pittsburgh Pirates, St. Louis Cardinals, Baltimore Orioles, Boston Red Sox and Washington Senators.
The Braves said Thursday last year's policy would continue: All home games will be blacked out in the Fox Cities.

JINGO

Jingo's Jewels: John Neville and Barbara Jefford head the cast of England's famed Old Vic company when it presents "Hamlet" as the "Show of the Month" on CBS-TV Feb. 24. The company is touring the United States now. "GE Theater" will star Gisele MacKenzie, John Raitt and Eddie Foy, Jr., in the series' first musical effort, "The Taming of the Squaw," on CBS-TV Feb. 8. Jack LeMmon, James Gregory and Rip Torn star in "Playhouse 90's" New Year's Day play, "Face of a Hero." It's about a young attorney who watches paralyzed with fear while a small girl drowns and then must defend a ne'er-do-well charged with her death.

Franchi Tone will be busy this month. He stars in next week's "Pursuit" story, "Last Night of August," with Dennis Hopper, Lyle Bettger and Cameron Mitchell, and in "Crazy Hunter," the "Destiny Playhouse" Dec. 29 offering. Danny Thomas has signed Annette Funicello, petite 16-year-old "mouseketeer," to replace his TV daughter Sherry Jackson. Annette will be introduced into the series as an Italian exchange student sometime in February. At the same time Sherry will be written out — to boarding school in Switzerland.

Jack Benny's parody on "Caslight," long in courts, will be seen on his Jan. 11 show. The Dec. 23 "Sugarfoot" episode is based on a Robert Louis Stevenson story. John Carradine has a part in it. Mel Blanc, the voice of Bugs Bunny, Woody the Woodpecker and many characters on Jack Benny's old radio show, will do the voice of the parrot in the Dec. 20 Perry Mason story, "The Case of the Perjured Parrot."

The Tennessee Ernie Ford show will be telecast in color for the first time Christmas night. Lennie and Jon Provost are guests. Bounty Hunter Josh Randall reluctantly accepts eight cents advance payment from a young boy to bring in Santa Claus on the Dec. 20 "Wanted—Dead or Alive" show. Fernando Lamas joins Lucy and Ricky for a jaunt to Sun Valley Monday night, Dec. 22. Two westernized versions of "Dickens' Christmas Carol" are slated on the two major TV networks. One will be the re-run of "GE The-

Jules Verne Story On Moon Rocket Subject of Movie

Today's headlines on rockets to the moon are reflected in a movie based on a story written many years ago by science-fiction writer Jules Verne.
The film, "From the Earth to the Moon," opened today at the Rio theater. Verne's story, regarded as sheer fantasy in the Victorian era, deals with the launching and space flight of an enormous projectile.
Among those on board are the four stars of the movie, George Sanders, Debra Paget as a stowaway, Joseph Cotten and Don Dubbins.
Rivalry between the craft's inventor and the man who financed the project brings a threat of disaster to the enterprise. The romantic interest

Jerry Lewis to Buy Half Interest in Night Club

Phoenix, Ariz. — Comedian Jerry Lewis is negotiating to acquire a half interest in the KoKo club, a fashionable northeast Phoenix night spot.
Proprietor Sol Tropp said the action of the story is supplied by the stowaway, Miss Paget.
Tropp bought the theater-restaurant in 1954 and rebuilt it after a fire destroyed it.

he plans to wrap up final arrangements with Lewis' attorneys. He said the deal would have been closed by now if Lewis hadn't become ill recently.
He did not divulge financial details.

ONE OF A SERIES
ANSWER: IT REALLY DOESN'T MATTER. Since all reading of newspaper ads is voluntary, long copy need not be read unless a person wishes. Hence, there is no resentment against the ad—as there is apt to be in other media. Therefore, in the newspaper an advertiser can tell a complete product story, using long or short copy to suit his needs. No wonder so many advertisers use the daily newspaper—it's the answer to their needs!

Peter Hayes Prefers His Daytime Show

Actor States, Too Much Pressure in Night Television

BY CHARLES MERCER

New York —(AP)—Peter Lind Hayes has come up with a pleasant daytime show on ABC-TV this season, and as far as he's concerned he wants to stay right there in the daylight.

Discussing an offer the other day to go into nighttime television, which usually is thought of as synonymous with the big-time television, Hayes said:

No Highs, Lows
"I'll take the daylight. Nighttime television is a pressure-cooker existence. You're lucky if one show in four is good. And it seems to be just about everyone's luck that the critics miss the good show and catch the three that aren't quite as good."

"All you have to do on daytime television is behave. If you're a pleasant personality, work at being kind, and don't act like a wisecracker, you get along fine on the daytime schedule. It helps if you talk slowly and sweetly and try to look as much like Nelson Eddy as possible. There are no tremendous highs or lows in daytime television."

Hayes insists he can be every bit as sophisticated on his show as in the hours after sunset.
"I have a limitless opportunity to present new talent," he said. "No message has been or ever will be involved in the program except a message of love—a love of talent if nothing else."

Audience Boss
Someone remarked that his only complaint against the show was that there are too many commercials. Hayes replied that the commercials are addressed to the ladies, bless 'em, and that the ladies seem to love 'em.

When his questioner remarked that Hayes' comedy on his program was not as incisive as the comedy Hayes and his wife, Mary Healy, present in their night club routines, Hayes said: "The television audience doesn't like incisive, caustic comedy."

He pointed out, as an example, that when Roland Winters, his sidekick on the program, began being caustic at Hayes' expense, mail from viewers protested strenuously.

Senators Critical of Meany's Plan to Form New Political Party

Washington —(AP)—George Meany's statement that the American labor movement may launch its own political party has drawn critical comment today from senators of both major parties.

Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, told a New York state labor convention Tuesday that organized labor will form its own party "if we have to do that to lick the people who want to drag us back to the past."

Senators commented generally in interviews that labor would do better to work through the present 2-party system, and that formation of a special-interest party would be undesirable and wrong.

The AMA and Pensioners

Members of the American Medical association do not want any more governmental interference in their business than is absolutely necessary. They have taken some very strong stands on this question in the past. Sometimes their opposition to any government activity of any kind in the medical field made it appear that they were intent on preventing the government from aiding the needy.

At the recent meeting of the AMA at Minneapolis the association called on the nation's physicians to lower their fees to elderly persons with low incomes, chiefly pensioners. That action alone is an effective answer to those who have been accusing the doctors of putting their own profits ahead of the welfare of the needy. Interestingly, however, this proposal was defended as a necessary part of the doctors' long-range program to keep government out of medicine; as one member of the AMA's Council of Medical Service put it, "We believe this is a field where the government will act if the doctors don't." This comment speaks volumes as to how the threat of government action (usually called "socialism" by its opponents) often spurs individuals, companies and groups into doing something they should have done on their own in the first place.

Since most people nowadays carry medical insurance of some sort it is expected that the chief benefit from the doctors' action will come through lower insurance costs. Details of the plan will be worked out in conference between representatives of insurance companies and local medical societies. The lower fees are not designed for charity patients. Neither are they for the elderly persons with sufficient incomes to pay their own way. They will apply, evidently, to the great middle class which is providing its own protection through the purchase of health insurance. It is impossible to say how the plan will work out for it is merely a proposal. But we think it offers the clearest and most understandable view of the AMA's stand on the whole wide field of government and doctors in relation to the patients.

It is interesting also that the AMA's House of Delegates at the Minneapolis meeting decided to study a report which urged a "judicious, tolerant, progressive attitude" toward medical care plans. The report mentioned that many programs operated by non-medical groups such as unions have been serving their subscribers well. While local medical societies often have taken an unfavorable attitude toward such programs, it is possible that they may change their stands as a result of this national report and the study which is to follow. If that is so, many may benefit from the new stand on such medical plans.

The Democrats Choose

Our Madison bureau recently dispatched a story with interesting implications for those concerned with the methods of political management and the origins of political power, especially in the Democratic party of Wisconsin which is entering a period of electoral prosperity which surprises even some of its own leaders.

The story announced, by way of an interview with the gentleman, that Assemblyman Robert Huber of West Allis intends to be a candidate for the speakership of the Assembly when it convenes Jan. 14 with a Democratic majority in control.

To the literal-minded there should be no surprise in that announcement. Huber is a veteran assemblyman. He is a competent legislator. He has the trust and the respect of his Democratic legislative associates, as attested by the fact that they have repeatedly named him their floor leader in the Assembly chamber in contests with the Republicans who have ruled there in the past. For a floorleader to graduate to the rostrum as presiding officer is natural, and expected, and is a rule in normal circumstances.

Yet the public prints of Wisconsin have in weeks past given the impression that Assemblyman George Molinaro of Kenosha is virtually certain to have that considerable honor and responsibility, quite in defiance of the ordinary behavior of a political party.

Newspapers with intimate connections with the Democratic hierarchy also have confided that the Assembly's chief clerk, a comparatively humble functionary, already has been chosen also to all intents and purposes. He is a Democratic lame duck from Madison, these prophets say.

Huber may believe that there are some strange things going on in the party he loves and has served so well. These are matters for the Democratic members of the Assembly to resolve, by their own votes. But these authoritative and exclusive predictions were being made weeks ago, and until today, in fact, the Democrats in the Assembly have not yet held a caucus to talk over these details. Who is calling the signals? Who is so sure that he can foretell what these 55 men, who have never met as a group, are going to do when they take their seats for the first time in mid-January? We are profoundly curious, as we imagine Assemblyman Huber must be.

It is not our business to suggest to the Democrats who ought to wield the gavel in the Assembly in the 1959 session. But we cannot resist the confession that it will be an extraordinary event if the new majority party there suddenly decides that its freely chosen quarterback of the minority days has become unwelcome with the victory.

Educational Hysterics

The American people have heard a great deal of propaganda to the effect that Russian education is ahead of ours — so far ahead, in fact, that our survival is threatened.

It is hard to winnow the fact from the fancy, and some educators appear to have taken the position that the most extreme rumors from alarmists, gleefully abetted by the Kremlin, should be accepted as the very truth. The theory seems to be that a sort of intellectual frenzy on our part will overtake and then surpass the Russians.

Dr. Edward G. Schlaefter, who took over this year as president of Monmouth college, West Long Beach, N. J., has decreed that classes will be continued during the usual Christmas recess "in this national emergency, to keep up with the Russians." The resultant near-riot by 500 students was no surprise. Neither was the comment by Dr. Eugene Leahman, former president, that "we cannot beat the Russians by using Russian methods."

Wisconsin residents are much more familiar with Monmouth college of Monmouth, Ill., than they are with Monmouth of New Jersey. The latter, according to the World Almanac has an enrollment of 1,320 students and a faculty of 54, while the college in Illinois has 620 students and a faculty of 50. In other words, Monmouth of New Jersey has about half as many instructors as Monmouth of Illinois on the basis of their total enrollments. The Almanac for 1958 says Lawrence college has 811 students and a faculty of 81.

Madison Press Distorts Truth Prior to Election

From The Janesville Gazette

In the closing days of the 1958 campaign, Madison and southern Wisconsin witnessed one of those unbelievable distortions which tend to bring discredit upon the public press.

In one of its last-minute efforts to defeat Gov. Vernon Thomson, the Madison Capital Times editorially spread the word that Thomson and James Hoffa, whose criminal activities in the Teamsters Union are under federal and court investigation, are political bedfellows.

The basis of this charge was the publication in "The Wisconsin Teamster," a publication of Hoffa's union in Wisconsin, of a series of four articles about Thomson, together with a picture of Thomson and a truck driver. On this basis the Capital Times headlines said: "Teamster Paper for Governor — Agents of Labor Boss Hoffa Are Backing Thomson."

The charge was intended to have a two-way effect. It was labeled by the Times as a plan of Thomson to "build himself up as a friend of labor." The other obvious motive was to link the governor with racketeering union elements. It is perfectly plain that the smear was directed not to labor voters, but at conservatives who cannot stomach Hoffa.

What the Capital Times did not say was that the Wisconsin Teamster also published another series of articles on Sen. Gaylord Nelson, the Democratic candidate for governor, not written by an outsider as were written by Nelson himself. The union publication in a note introducing the articles, said it "believes in presenting both sides of the current gubernatorial race."

The Times, which comes up with what it hopes will be a new sensation every day, seldom rates an answer in the press of the state. Other newspapers would be kept busy denying or explaining its reports and rumors. In this case, however, it is impossible to believe that either Gov. Thomson, Sen.

Adlai Stevenson Derides GOP Claims to Peace

From The Daily Oklahoman

Adlai Stevenson refers derisively to Republican claims of peace and progress.

He says that "the world is more dangerous, not less, than it was six years ago when the Republicans took office."

In the absence of any documentation, Adlai's stated view must be regarded as a matter of partisan opinion. What isn't a matter of opinion is the actual state of war that existed in Korea when the Republicans won the presidency.

For the 36,000 Americans who died in Korea the world was definitely more dangerous then than now.

It's All a Matter Of Direction

From The Nashville, Tenn., Banner

In the Kremlin view, it's all right for Boris Pasternak's pen to be mightier than the sword if he'll just point it in some other direction.

Nelson or the Teamster's union will have any part of the Time's outright departure from the truth.

Pleads for Logic in Discussing Dog Care

Editor, Post-Crescent:

This is not a letter of protest. It is a plea for a little horse sense regarding the current dog problem. Thus far in the canine controversy the month's biggest mouthful of nonsense was made at the recent meeting of the Citizens' Committee for Animal Welfare. I am referring to a statement made by a woman and quoted in an article appearing in the Post-Crescent on Thursday, Dec. 4. To the suggestion that all female mongrels be spayed, to cut down on the stray dog population, the lady in question retorted: "A dog is a dog, just like a human."

Apparently this is an elliptical sentence admitting two possible interpretations. If the maker of this meaningless remark meant that a dog is a dog just like a human is a dog, then I'm going to have all future surgery performed by a veterinarian. What's the difference between a dog doctor and a medical man?

But let's give the good woman the benefit of the doubt. Perhaps she meant that a dog is a dog just like a human is a human. Which proves what? She might as well have said that black is black just like white is white. It would have had the same probative force.

Incidentally, I don't even agree that a dog is a dog just like a human is a human. If I believed that, I would resign from the human race and reside in a dog house!

Let's be loyal to the logic (or lack of it) in this silly statement. A pig is a pig just like a human. Would the members of the Citizens' Committee for Animal Welfare begrudge us a delicious dinner of pork chops?

A cow is a cow just like a human. Let's run the owners of all meat markets and steak houses out of town. A deer is a deer just like a human. I propose that all deer hunters stand trial for the crime of murder. A horse is a horse just like a human. How about boycotting the dog-food hucksters who proudly advertise their product as containing the finest equine flesh?

We could go on and on drawing even more absurd conclusions from that ridiculous remark: "A dog is a dog, just like a human." Another statement to which I vehemently take exception is one contained in a letter printed in the People's Forum several weeks ago. The writer of this letter pleaded for "man's best friend" with the words of Christ (and I quote): "Whatever ye do unto the least of these, ye do unto Me."

Unfortunately the writer failed to quote the complete text of St. Matthew which reads as follows: "As long as you did it for one of these, the least of My brethren, you did it for Me" (Matt. 25:40).

This misquote of Matthew is as blasphemous as the above-mentioned statement is ridiculous. It doesn't require 20/20 vision to see what it makes of Christ!!!

Least my words be misconstrued, I wish to go on record as saying that I love dogs. But I happen to love And I believe that God gave man dominion over all the irrational creatures — dogs included (Cf. Genesis 1:28-30).

Thanks to the past efforts of the humane societies, this dominion of right reason has been prevented from degenerating into a domination of cruel tyranny. But if some of the present sob sister-members of these societies continue to pursue the nauseating policy of preferring dogs to humans, they're humans more than dogs, barking up the wrong tree and our country is headed for the dogs!

I might add that the Citizens' Committee for Animal Welfare would do well to show as much interest in civil rights as they do in canine rights. Some welcome results of such a humanitarian interest might be the following: (1) fewer mail carriers bitten by unleashed dogs; (2) more neighbors enjoying a quiet night's sleep; (3) some Negro citizens in the fair city of Appleton; and (4) a happier Christmas for the families of the victims of the Bradley ship disaster or the Chicago school holocaust.

Sane Policies Needed if We Are to Survive

Editor, Post-Crescent:

One of the most remarkable jobs of reporting I have found in your paper in recent times was the series by Jack Glasner on the State of Civil Defense in northeastern Wisconsin. All the more am I surprised at the seeming lack of public response to his articles, especially in your Forum.

What can be the explanation for this continued indif-

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — It is perfectly natural that the Republican assemblymen who got themselves re-elected on Nov. 4 but watched their accustomed control of the lower house of the legislature go glimmering are now somewhat perplexed about their tactics as the new session of the legislature nears.

For all except a very small handful, working from a minority party position will be a new experience. It is awkward. Some of the young men had never considered such a possibility. As they showed in their Portage caucus a week ago, they don't know whether it will be political to be conciliatory or antagonistic. They have yet to figure it out.

What their perplexity shows, of course, is that they don't have a real grasp of the function of the minority in politics, practically or theoretically.

It is one thing to propose, as some of them did in their ference, about which the men in charge of the defense program seem to be so discouraged? Could it be that it is not so much the ostrich reflex in all of us as the sense of futility about all possible defense which paralyzes any person who dares to visualize the realities of thermonuclear warfare?

Whatever measures we might be able to contrive to meet today's threat are already outdated when we adopt them, by the latest developments in the field of intercontinental ballistic missiles. Was it not just a month ago that the head of the Physics department at the University of Wisconsin told a League of Women Voters audience that the only meaningful defense would be the transfer of our whole civilization to a troglodyte existence six hundred feet below the ground?

The efforts of those who feel the obligation to awaken the escapists among us to the precariousness of our present situations deserve every recognition. But it would be too bad if this should increase the sense of false security which would arise from the idea that we could be seriously prepared for the total destruction which radioactive war would involve. To plan ahead for such an emergency makes sense only if it makes us more fully aware of the imminence of the threat and of our responsibilities to work for a new national and international policy in the name of sanity. Real defense in a nuclear age requires some more serious rethinking than our local problems involve.

Being Minority No Reason for Silence

uncertainty, to give the new Democratic majority party its lead. No doubt, as some of them so worriedly declared, the people who gave Gov.-elect Nelson a 90,000 majority at the polls want him to have a sporting chance to make good.

OPPOSITION ROLE

But these men should look up, if they don't know it from personal experience, what the Democrats during the last decade have done from their minority position.

They granted no free honymoons to their opposition, except when they were necessary.

They were poised and ready for the attack, and they attacked when they found the openings and had the material.

In many respects the obligations of the minority are as real and as important as the responsibilities of the majority in politics. The minority has the duty, and the right, to audit and report on the program and the actions of the majority, and thus to draw the issues for the enlightenment of the public.

The assembly Republican caucus showed two kinds of men — those who regard their seats as personal possessions that they don't want to risk by appearing partisan in a time of obviously rising Democratic fortunes — and those who regard themselves not only as legislators but as leaders and spokesmen in a political party organization.

The latter are willing to risk the appearance of being "poor losers", as some of their more nervous colleagues put it, for the sake of presenting a clear Republican position to the electorate at a time when the Republicans in state politics must look to the legislative Republicans to do so. There are no other available survivors in state politics.

THE ISSUES

Some of the propositions the Democratic regime-elect already has advanced are surely as valid subjects for discussion and argument today — fully drawn as they are — as they will be six weeks or two months from now when their authors get around to putting them in bill form. Whether this state will further increase the top rates of its income tax schedule, whether it should have a complete reorganization of its administrative departments, whether it should scuttle some agencies that have performed for 30 years — such as the conservation commission — whether it should abandon its historic rule against state bonding, and especially now that the new governor has broadened his debt proposal with a post-election amendment for highway bonding as well, these are the stuff of state politics and vital issues of policy.

To suggest that it is not fair to debate them is only a short step from declaring that members of an opposition party cannot vote against them but must merely call out their "jahs" on the roll calls next winter.

Anyone familiar with the tactics of the Democratic party during its steady rise during the last decade will find that a strange line of reasoning indeed and the Democrats, for themselves, may be having some private chuckles.

Christmas Shopping Can be Frustrating
Washington — Yes, Christmas shopping can be frustrating even if you never enter a store.

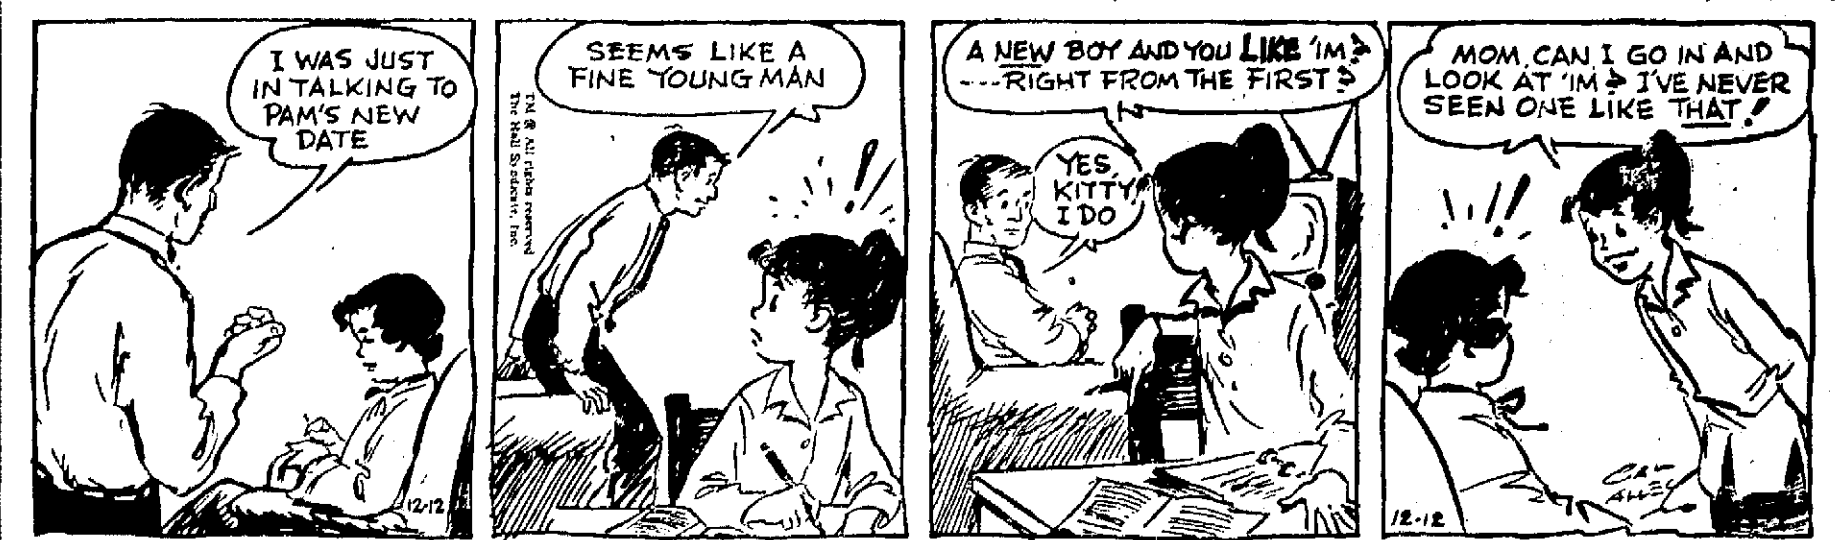

Mrs. Dorothy Moore and her son Dale, 8, stepped from a bus. As it moved on, Mrs. Moore realized she had left her purse—with $80—on the vehicle. She raced after it and finally caught it with the help of a passing motorist. She retrieved her money.

Then she remembered her son, left eight blocks behind. Back she hurried, running where she could, walking when traffic was too heavy. She finally reached Dale, window shopping where she'd left him.

"I was so glad to see him I was no good after that," said Mrs. Moore. "We just took the next bus home."

Sees '59 as Best Year for Building

Housing Starts to Remain Same
But Other Phases Will Increase,
Construction Economist Predicts

Washington — One of the nation's leading building economists predicted today that construction activity in 1959 will hit a new all-time high for the 12th successive year but housing starts, public and private combined, will remain at about the 1958 level of 1,160,000.

Edwin W. Magee, Jr., associate economist of the F. W. Dodge Corp., construction news and marketing service, explained that his forecast was based on recent construction contract awards and the outlook for contract awards next year.

Magee declared:
"Construction contract awards are apt to rise three per cent next year to a total of $35,570,000,000. This would be on top of a seven per cent rise in 1958 compared with 1957."

Residential construction, according to Magee, is one of the most difficult categories of building to forecast at this time. A tightening of the mortgage money market, making it difficult in many areas to obtain FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed financing, should exert a downward pressure on home building during the early months of 1959, he stated.

At the same time, the new congress is expected to take prompt action to pour more funds into the lending stream and the result should be a moderate upsurge in home construction during the second half of 1959, Magee emphasized.

Balance Each Other

"With these factors more or less balancing each other off, we look for next year's housing starts, public and private combined, to show very little, if any, change from this year's expected total of about 1,160,000."

Contract awards for new residential construction next year will be down two per cent in floor area but up one per cent in dollar volume, Magee said.

This is accounted for, he explained, by the prospect that apartment construction will represent an increasing share of new residential units while the cost of all residential building, reflecting higher price tags on materials and labor, will continue upward.

Non-residential construction awards next year, Magee reported, are expected to be up some four per cent in physical volume, with manufacturing buildings accounting for the largest gain percentage-wise—at least 14 per cent.

Contract awards for other types of construction, he said, are likely to increase in physical volume as follows: Commercial buildings, up three per cent; educational buildings, up two per cent; religious buildings, up four per cent.

Jail Term Would Bar Youth From Big Inheritance

Blackpool, England — A 15-year-old British boy will inherit $42,000 in 1961 if he hasn't spent two years in jail for larceny. He appeared in juvenile court Wednesday on a larceny charge.

The boy pleaded guilty to stealing a camera and a raincoat. The charge normally would result in sentencing to a juvenile detention center—not jail.

The boy's attorney said that would leave him still eligible for the inheritance.

The money was left by an eccentric seaside postcard seller. When he died in 1951, he said his adopted son could have the money when he became 48. But two or more years in jail for larceny would bar the boy from ever getting the money, the will stipulated.

Sentencing was postponed for two weeks to await a medical report. The youth's name was withheld.

Get Advice of Expert Before Signing Papers

Outlay of Dollars For Home Requires Careful Thought

BY ANDREW C. LANG
AP News Features Writer

A person getting ready to buy a house for the first time often has a lot of erroneous ideas about a mortgage. Realtors, banks, savings and loan associations and other leading agencies are constantly amazed at the fallacies that have crept into the thinking of many potential first-time purchasers.

Even with all these misconceptions, little damage would be done if every buyer took the time and trouble to read and understand all the papers he signs. But it is a rarity when somebody reads every word of every document placed before him and then — and only then — attaches his signature. The general feeling seems to be: "These are regulation forms and papers which everybody signs in order to get a mortgage. Why shouldn't I sign them, too?"

Discover Facts
Why, indeed? Yet there are countless numbers of persons every year who discover some facts about their mortgages of which they were unaware. Lest there be any misunderstanding, it's not the fault of the banks or agencies which are lending the money. It's simply that there are different kinds of mortgages—and it's up to you to get the type best suited for your needs.

You can't blame the lender any more than you can blame the builder because you paid extra for a 7-room house when you really needed one with only five rooms.

When you're laying out thousands of dollars to buy a house, it is false economy not to use the services of a lawyer for a very small percentage of the total cost of the purchase. He not only will take care of all the details for you, but will protect your interests to see that you get what you want.

Carry Out Wishes
The important thing, however, is to know what you want so that your wishes can be carried out. If, for instance, Bamboo Curtains, if They're Small, can be cleaned in a sink full of soap and water, rinsed off and put back in the window to dry. A sink spray is ideal for rinsing. Larger shades may be sponged clean with soap and water while they're still in place.

Breezeway Carries Potential Of an Ideal All-Purpose Room

A breezeway, which usually is just a simple roof between garage and residence, has a great potential for conversion into an all-purpose room.

Situated apart from the home, yet conveniently close, the breezeway can readily be transformed into a place for television viewing, for example, where programs won't dominate the chief living quarters and cause dissension among non-viewers.

Entertain Guests
A converted breezeway, too, is an ideal place for high school youngsters to entertain their guests. There they'll have the "apartness" they want, and the other members of the family won't be disturbed by music, dancing and laughter.

Relatively inexpensive, the transformation of a breezeway into a room can be accomplished by the home handyman using some of the fine materials available to him at his lumber yard.

For example, an excellent way of enclosing the ends of the breezeway is to install window walls. That leaves just two walls to convert from exterior to interior finish.

Recommended by many who have used them are panels, factory-grained and requiring only waxing or the application of a clear sealer such as shellac or varnish after their installation. Their vertical grooves serve to punctuate the woodgrain pattern and to hide the small-headed nails used at the joints to fasten them.

Plank Effect
Four-foot widths make it a cinch for the handyman to put them up; yet their grooves break up the grained pattern effectively, giving a plank effect.

Acoustical tiles for the ceiling and a resilient floor covering over the concrete slab are other major features of such a handyman modernization. Others, which may require professional help, are heating and lighting.

Mail Brings Hints for Homemakers

Decorating, Cleaning Problems Solved In Easy Manner

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP News Features Writer

"Operation Household" figures in the mail bag as we approach the fall home improvement season. Here are hints on how to handle some problems of repairing, decorating, cleaning.

A hole in a screen must be patched up, as one homeowner puts it, "before every dog, cat and woodchuck in the neighborhood makes a winter playground out of the screened-in porch."

A good way to patch a screen is to take a section of screen somewhat larger than the hole itself, letting end wires all around the hole hang loose so they can be threaded through the screen area around the hole, sort of like darning a sock. A thin metal instrument or crochet needle helps do a neat job quickly.

"I have just spent a good deal of money on new draperies only to find they were not fade proof," writes a woman reader. "The colors were blues and reds and after one summer I am shocked to find large bleached areas. Is there any fabric that is fade proof?" The store where I bought the fabric says this could happen with any fabric.

Avoid Fading
There are several sun-proof fabrics available. A substance is infused into the yard before it is made into fabric, offering high-fade resistance in sheer, semi-sheer, lightweight textures, satin-backed weaves, antique satin and in all popular home furnishings shades.

Bamboo shades cause some people to hesitate when it comes to cleaning, but they actually are easy to clean. Matchstick bamboo shades, like other varieties, may be cleaned with soap and water. Just dunk the small size in the sink, sponge with soap and water, and rinse off with cool water. A sink spray is ideal for rinsing. Ordinary shades may be cleaned with thick soap suds and sponges or cloth in circular motion.

Mixing Popular
The shades may be replaced at the windows without being wiped dry, unless they are very wet. Keep them down until they are dry. Large bamboo shades may be sponged clean with soap and water while they are still in place.

Rinse off the soap and let them dry.
This is an era of mixed woods in home furnishings. Homemakers are puzzled as to how to mix periods and woods in home decorating. "I have a mahogany breakfast (not a period piece)," writes a reader, "and I'd like to know whether you think it is compatible with a coffee table of pickled wood, a walnut end table and black Chinese chipendale chairs and end table."

It sometimes poses a problem to decide how to integrate a number of woods. Sometimes it can be done. Sometimes not. A good rule of thumb is to keep light woods — pine, fruitwood, walnut — an dark woods — mahogany, rosewood, etc.—together, but there are instances when these woods may all be happy together.

It depends on whether pieces are large and small, how much wood is exposed, what color fabrics are used. A decorator should be consulted.

Burner Trays
"It seems to me," writes a young homemaker, "that my mother never had trouble keeping burner trays clean, even with old appliances. I have a wonderful new electric stove, but trays are a disgrace. I can't seem to find anything that will keep them clean or shine them up quickly."

A good idea is to clean burner trays thoroughly, cover them with aluminum foil, and then just keep replacing the foil when it tarnishes.

The way to keep a "small room from shrinking" the problem of another homemaker, is to paint it in cool colors, pale tints and use only small wallpaper designs.

Glass Blocks Can be Bolted In New Process

Must be Used as Inside Decorating Item, However

BY ANDREW C. LANG

The manufacturers of glass blocks had a difficult time getting the public to accept their products for do-it-yourself projects because of the necessity of using mortar in the joints. There was a general recognition that proper mortaring required a certain amount of skill to avoid a homemade look.

Part of this reluctance was overcome with the development of new methods of constructing glass block panels without the use of mortar, especially the system of wooden strips and wedges. Now comes a still newer method, calling for the glass blocks to be bolted together and said to be less expensive and easier to handle. It must be emphasized that this setup—as with all other mortarless systems—should be used indoors only. For an outside, weatherproof wall, the glass blocks still must be mortared together.

Room Dividers
Bolted glass block is especially suitable for room dividers. To make one, you must, of course, first determine the size you want it to be. But it should be an approximate size, subject to a slight change in plans so that you can use an exact number of glass blocks of either the 8-inch or 12-inch size. After that comes the construction of a wooden frame in which the blocks will be installed. One-by-6 inch stock is preferable, with quarter-round molding nailed into position 1/4 inch from the edge of one side of the frame. The rest of the molding is nailed on after the glass blocks are put in place.

From there on it's just a case of building rows of blocks, placing the specially-made bolt assembly into the corners of the joints. This assembly consists of small aluminum rods and threaded plastic rosettes. All that can be seen are the decorative rosettes.

Free Press Must be Able to Get Along Without Subsidies

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New York — The first essential of a free press is the ability for publications to earn expenses without depending upon subsidies.

The moment a newspaper is forced to accept a subsidy from a political party or a government or a group of rich men for continued existence, then it ceases to be free. Except in those countries where the press depends upon advertising can it be politically and socially free, not because advertisers are idealists but because they can not afford to mix their business with their product. Just as many Democrats use soap as Republicans and just as many Republicans use automobiles as Democrats. In fact, even socialists wash their faces.

Thus, the logic of the situation rather than the virtue either of the advertiser or the newspaper publisher has kept our press singularly free of outside control. The great editors of the 19th and early 20th centuries, before the press faced radio and TV competition. William Randolph Hearst, Joseph Pulitzer, William Allen White, Henry Watterson and dozens of others, would just as soon tell a heavy advertiser to jump into a lake as to take his check. They were men of singular independence and ran their newspapers as they chose without regard for official approval or social relationships.

Proud Calling
Also, they were members of a proud calling, important in the affairs of the country and surprisingly unafraid. Their principal task was that of being a constant critic of the government. It was the newspapers which performed many of the tasks which congressional committees do today. Unafraid, their reporters were out to catch the thieves in public office and it was newspaper editors and newspaper cartoonists who exposed the sanctimonious stuffed shirts who posed as saints and robbed the poor. Tom Nast and F. B. Oppenheimer to mention two great names, served America as any soldier in the field. Lincoln Steffens, Charles Edward Russell, Upton Sinclair and dozens of other daring men freely spoke their minds and saved human beings and the country.

That was a wholesome function of the press and still is, but to maintain this strong po-

Red Newspaper Casts Jibe at State Secretary

Moscow —(AP)— Pravda Thursday likened Secretary of State Dulles to a Lilliputian statesman.

The article in the Soviet communist party newspaper said Dulles talks more than the tiny speaker in Swift's satire "but his outlook hardly surpasses the dimensions of the Lilliputian statesman."

Only one thing emerges clearly "from the anti-communist shell in which Dulles wraps all his speeches — fear, fear before the gigantic successes of the Soviet Union, communist China and other people's democracies," the article by S. Vishnevsky said.

Commenting on Dulles' statement in his Dec. 4 speech in San Francisco that U. S. recognition of red China would be a virtual death blow to free nations in the Far East, Pravda jibed:

"If the position of America's friends and allies in the Far East is so weak, then the (American) task is really hopeless."

ABSALOM

"But in all Israel, there was none to be so much praised as Absalom for his beauty: from the sole of his foot even to the crown of his head there was no blemish in him."

—II Samuel 14:25

Absalom, the son of David, King of Israel, had many of the qualities that should have made him one of the great men of history. He was handsome, intelligent, and strong.

But he brought grief to his father who loved him deeply.

Of Absalom's childhood, the Bible gives us only a hint. It appears that he was David's favorite son. For this reason he was no doubt over-indulged and spoiled by too much affection.

Thus, as he grew up, his disposition began to show evil signs of violence and deceit.

But it was always Absalom the beautiful child that remained in David's memory. When Absalom died after killing his brother Amnon, we can imagine David's thoughts in many a twilight:

"Do you remember, Absalom my son, how in the soft summer evenings now forever gone, we walked together in the garden? You loved the gray-winged moths, and when I lifted you, you begged, 'O let me fly like them!' "Absalom, my son, we walked through the ripening wheat. And I spoke the same thoughts that had enlightened Abraham: the Will of God is gentle. His Will is love; and man can share His love, but only through service, not taken in the manner of beasts.

"You listened, my son, but you did not hear. I spoke of my plan for a Temple, designed as a symbol and a reminder to man that the real temple to God is man himself. That a man lives his belief, thus he worships God. There is no other worship.

"But your mind was upon the cry of a wild bird. And you turned away when I said: 'I have slain in this world where to slay is to survive. But there was no evil in my purpose. Let the way of His provision be shown unto you, my son. Choose the way of Life, not of death.' "You paused then, and gave a little thought to this. But you were not warned by it. "O Absalom, my son, my son!"

British Judge Says Noble Still Married

London —(AP)— A British divorce judge told the Marquess of Milford Haven Thursday that he may be divorced in New York and Mexico but he is still married to his American wife in Britain.

The 39-year-old marquess, best man at the wedding of his cousin Prince Philip to Queen Elizabeth II, sought a ruling that his wife's Mexican divorce also was valid in England because New York state recognizes it. Britain recognizes New York divorces but not Mexican quickies.

The marchioness, American divorcee Romaine Pierce Simpson, went to Bravos, in Chihuahua state, Mexico, and filed for divorce on May 21, 1954. She got her decree on the grounds of incompatibility the next day. She and the marquess were married in Washington, Feb. 4, 1950.

The marquess originally asked to be declared a free man in Britain when his name was linked with Hungarian movie star Eva Bartok. Friends indicated he wanted to clear up his marital status in order to marry Miss Bartok. But seven weeks ago Miss Bartok found herself a new boy friend — ndian Prince Shiv of Palitana.

What entered 88% of all U.S. homes yesterday?

ANSWER: THE DAILY NEWSPAPER. A recent study by the Market Research Corporation of America revealed that "88% of all U.S. families had a newspaper in their homes yesterday." And Sindlinger & Company, analysts, report that on an average day, some 100,000,000 people (12 years old and over) read the newspaper! Nelson Asks Law on Control Of Billboards

Strong Drive Seen To Conserve Scenic Value of Highways

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—A possible strong drive for the control or elimination of billboard advertising from the main line roads of Wisconsin is forecast in the request by Gov. Elect Gay, lord Nelson to the state highway commission. He called for the drafting of a billboard control bill for the consideration of the 1959 legislature.

Nelson has long been an advocate of the conservation of scenic values of Wisconsin roads through the control of billboards. His bill on the subject sponsored by him as a state senator two years ago was largely ignored.

Federal Highway Bonus

The governor-elect presumably will have the backing of this year of the state assembly, under the control of his party, and probably more state senators. Chairman Harold Plummer, and other members of the state highway commission have independently expressed support for a billboard regulation law in the past. The topic came up when day school treasurer.

Nelson questioned Plummer at a budget hearing about the terms of the new federal highway act which encourages states to impose billboard controls along the right-of-way of the new federally-financed interstate highway system. Some 453 miles of this highway system will be laid out in Wisconsin during the next decade.

Plummer said the "bonus" contained in federal law would amount to about a million dollars for Wisconsin for the interstate highway system.

Any such legislation, it is felt here, would inevitably be a precedent for similar legislation of advertising signs on the rest of the highway mileage of Wisconsin, including the 12,500 mile state trunk highway system.

Plummer said that only a few states so far have acted in response to the federal law incentives.

Church Names New Officers

Roy Moore has been elected president of St. Matthew Lutheran church.

Other officers elected are: Alvin Roehl, vice president; Victor Timm, financial secretary; Victor Timm, treasurer; LaVern Diestler, assistant financial secretary; Ronald Posselt, recording secretary; and Elmer Tilley, treasurer.

Walter Raddatz and Richard Prasher were elected to the board of parish education.

Ralph Bockin was elected Sunday school treasurer.

Ernest Gruening, New senator from Alaska, visited the Lawrence college campus Thursday to deliver a speech before the student body and for informal meetings with faculty members. At a luncheon party at Lucinda Darling Colman hall are, from left, Professors William H. Riker, Chandler W. Rowe and Senator Gruening.

ble candidates. "We have a lot of excellent men who could run for president," he commented.

No Comments

Asserting that he wasn't attempting to evade issues, the senator refused to comment on the Taft-Hartley law, on the senate's filibuster rule and on the depletion allowance available to oil interests.

"It's not good for a senator-elect to pass judgment on such subjects until he sees in what form any bill concerning them reaches the senate," he asserted.

Neither would he say whether he intends to align himself with the so-called Johnson Democrats—those who favor a more moderate stand on several issues, including civil rights—or with the so-called liberal Democrats. "I see no such division in the party," he stated.

Sen. Gruening received his first political appointment in 1933 when President Franklin Roosevelt named him advisor to the U.S. delegation at the seventh Pan American congress.

From 1934 to 1939 he was director of the division of territories and island possessions, with jurisdiction over Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, South Sea and Equatorial Islands, U.S. Antarctic service and the Philippines.

Roosevelt named him Alaska's governor in 1939 and he has been a resident since. He is now living outside Juneau.

"Three generations of Gruenings are living in Alaska now—two by choice and one by birth," he grinned. He, his wife, his son and daughter-in-law are by choice, he explains, and his grandchildren by birth.

Senator Traces History of Newest State

Admission Shows U. S. Doesn't Hold to Colonialism, He Says

The admission of Alaska as the 49th state of the union demonstrates the fact that Uncle Sam does not practice colonialism, said Ernest Gruening, former territorial governor and now senator-elect of the state of Alaska, Thursday at a student body convocation at Lawrence college.

Gruening sketched the history of Alaska from its purchase from Russia in 1867 to achievement of statehood this year.

He pointed out that for the first 17 years after its purchase Alaska had no established government. Such government as existed was de facto under the commanding general of US troops in Sitka.

then - capital of Alaska. In 1894 congress enacted a body of law for Alaska, "completely unworkable," said Gruening. It applied the code of the Oregon territory, unsuitable because the two territories were organized in different ways.

In 1890, with the discovery of gold in Alaska, American gold prospectors found that there was no way for a miner's claim to be registered and the demand for legislation grew. Finally, in 1906, Alaska was given one voteless delegate in congress and in 1912 territorial legislation was enacted.

Negative Indifference
Gruening called the period from 1867 to 1912 a period of "negative indifference without parallel in United States history."

Gruening then reviewed Alaska's attempts at achieving statehood from the first bill in 1916 to the present enactment this year. He was a member of the 3-man delegation sent to Washington to petition congress to admit Alaska to the union.

He also pointed out the beauty and resources of his state. He explained examples of progress. The territorial legislature, he said, preceded the congressional move to give the vote to women and to enact an old age pension plan. The Alaskan lawmakers already have banned billboards on public highways. The question still is being debated in congress.

The new state still lacks an adequate system of roads, he said, and there are many other improvements to be made. The senator - elect feels the achievement of statehood is an important step in the right direction toward solving these problems.

"It's the key to progress," Gruening said.

Post Offices Open Dec. 26

Fox Cities post offices will be open for business as usual Dec. 26.

The day is a holiday for federal employees, but Postmaster Gen. Arthur Summerfield ordered normal mail service.

Regular employees working Dec. 26 will be granted equivalent time off later. Summerfield authorized postmasters to excuse those employees not needed.

President Eisenhower ordered the holiday, but allowed department heads to use as many employees as required "for public reasons."

Brakes Fail; Girl, 16, Hit

Hortonville Pupil In Fair Condition After Accident

A 16-year-old rural Hortonville girl was struck by a car as she walked along the side of a school bus Thursday afternoon near her home.

Katherine Berholtz, 16, route 2, Hortonville received a broken right leg, several teeth knocked out and bruises over the upper portion of her body. She was reported in fair condition at St. Elizabeth hospital today.

Driver of the car, Clarence H. Rhyner, 62, route 1, Neenah told county police his brakes did not work.

County Policeman E. A. Welch said Rhyner's car came over a hill about 480 feet from where the bus was stopped. Rhyner said he saw the girl. He turned to the right in an attempt to avoid a collision with the bus, striking the girl as she walked along the bus, he said. Rhyner's car went off the right side of the road and traveled 150 feet in front of the bus, 54 feet across the town road and bounced 15 feet after hitting the opposite ditch.

The accident occurred about 1 1/2 miles south of Highway 45 about a mile east of Hortonville. Driver of the bus was Maynard H. Knapp, 32, route 2, Hortonville.

County police impounded Rhyner's car to examine it for mechanical defects. The girl was taken to the hospital by Larry's ambulance.

3 Policemen, Ex-Convict Accused of Robbery

Indianapolis — Three Indianapolis policemen and a former convict were charged with robbery Thursday in an alleged hijacking of a poker game.

Free on $3,000 bond each were Patrolmen Darrell E. Havlin, 28, J. T. Rinks, 29, and Maurice R. Stout, 32, and a former convict, William Migenburg, 42.

The men are accused of holding up a near-downtown poker game Oct. 27.

Inspector Carl C. Schmidt said Rinks and Havlin signed statements admitting they intended to hijack the game.

Stout denied the robbery charge and said he went along with the understanding that an arrest was to be made on a routine vice raid.

Arliss French, Manager of the Appleton Red Owl store, is greeted by Lions Club President Fred C. Matthews at the Outagamie county airport. French returned Thursday from a trip to Mars, Germany. He won the trip by taking up a shaving cream company's challenge to collect 900 empty jars.

German Junket

Fox Cities Spaceman Returns From 'Mars'

The Fox Cities' globe-trotting spaceman, Arliss French, returned home Thursday.

French, manager of the Appleton Red Owl store, was met at the Outagamie county airport by a welcoming committee of Lions club and Northside Advancement association representatives and friends.

French won a trip to Mars, Germany, by taking up a Colrupe Shave company challenge. He noticed shaving cream signs advertising a free "trip to Mars" for 900 empty jars of the product and proceeded to collect them.

Fast Flight
Mr. and Mrs. French traveled by jet airliner from New York City. The plane left New York at 10 a. m., Dec. 2, and landed in Paris 11 hours later.

Cruising speed in the sleek new airliner was about 624 miles per hour, he said.

The Appleton couple took a tour of Paris before flying on to Germany.

The first of several royal welcomes was in store for them at the Dusseldorf airport. They were met by German and American government officials and a mob of TV cameramen and newspaper photographers.

They travelled to a city not far from Mars, where they were met by more officials and cameramen. At city hall the mayor gave a welcoming speech and presented them with gifts.

The Appleton couple went to Mars in a 15-car caravan with police escort.

The citizens of Mars, all 78 of them, and 200 people from the surrounding area lined to the street to welcome them. French said, Mrs. French was given carnations. French got a live white pig — German symbol of good luck. He returned the pig to the donors.

The Frenches were taken to a restaurant on the Rhine river for dinner. They were shown the spot where Gen. Eisenhower crossed the river in 1945 and a memorial cemetery for soldiers killed in battle. They visited a German farm, where they were presented with apples.

Other highlights of the German visit included dinner with officials, visit to an opera and a look at a St. Nicholas day parade.

French's space costume attracted attention throughout the journey, he reported. On the flight to New York from Minneapolis the airline stewardess announced the celebrities' presence to the passengers.

IH Firm Presses For Agreement To End Walkout

Chicago — International Harvester company pressed anew today for a United Auto Workers union agreement to end a four-week-old strike of 37,000 employees at 18 Harvester plants.

In response to an offer by Harvester to drop all but six of its contract demands, the union said Thursday these concessions were insufficient to warrant a settlement.

"This latest move by the company withdraws unwarranted demands," said Pat Greathouse, UAW international vice president, "but it does not demonstrate a sufficient withdrawal to warrant a settlement basis, and it still is a refusal to meet the negotiated pattern of the industry."

Your Problems

Ann Still Fights for Women's Choice in Early Morn Garb

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR READERS: I've been catching heat from 49 states (including Alaska) plus a beef from Dusseldorf, Germany.

Typical comment: "Ann Landers, what do you mean by backing up sloppy housewives who slosh around in bathrobes Ann Landers all day?" The consensus is that 9:00 a.m. is time enough for any housewife to be dressed in a crisp house dress ready to greet the bright-eyed, enterprising insurance agent. Most of the bleats came from men—naturally.

I still say a woman's home is her castle and there's no reason to get fully clothed to see her family off to work or school—unless she wants to. This is not to imply that women should appear at the breakfast table with knotted hair, looking lumpy in an old beat-up kimono and maribou bedroom slippers. There are attractive housecoats—in fact they are much like the Hoover aprons of 20 years ago. Men, of course, are expected to dress the first thing in the morning. They could hardly go to work in their pajamas. On Sunday, however, how many men get dressed as if they're going to work? Let's face it. Some women are slobes even when fully dressed. And some women can be appetizing in a housecoat. I see no reason for anyone to object if she wants to indulge in a short-cut—least of all a guy who comes by to sell insurance.

DEAR ANN: What can I do to get my husband to be a decent father to his sons? At the dinner table he reads the newspaper in their faces and when they ask him a question I have to kick him in the leg so he'll answer.

He is forever telling them they are no good, lazy, stupid and will never amount to anything.

No matter what the boys do he finds fault. The younger boy built a model airplane and was very proud of it. His father practically ripped it to pieces to show that the sections weren't properly glued. The child was crest-fallen.

What makes a man like this? My husband reads your column every day and thinks your advice is wonderful. Maybe you can say something that will straighten him out. I'm very tired.—Sickofit

The father who browbeats and belittles his children is a frightened child himself. How did he get this way? His father gave him an inferiority complex for a birthday present.

Unless your husband seeks the help of a professional he'll probably go to his grave and never catch on. The father who in later years finds that his children ignore him, considers them "ungrateful" and "selfish" when in reality they are only reacting to the freeze-out of their childhood.

The mother in such a home has double duty. She must give her sons warmth and praise (without smothering them) and see that they have a feeling of achievement and worth. Since your husband reads this column daily, I hope he'll get an eyeful today.

DEAR ANN: I've been seeing a lovely girl but she's very mysterious. She says she works for a secret government agency and can't tell me anything beyond that.

I'm not permitted to call her at home, pick her up, or bring her to the door. I don't have her phone number. She always calls me. I've never met any of her friends or family. She says I must have faith and not ask any questions. In the meantime I've fallen in love with her as she's the prettiest and most charming woman I've ever known.

This has been going on for seven months. What do you make of it? Am I a sap? Give me the word.—Britt

Dear Britt: The word is yes. Any woman who can't be phoned, picked up and taken home after a date, and hasn't produced a single living friend or relative, is probably hiding something—like a husband. Even if she worked for a secret government agency, she wouldn't have to behave in this spooky manner. You only asked for one word but I'd like to suggest another one—"goodbye."

Deck Halls with Balls and Boughs

'Kissing' Ball of String

Deck the halls with boughs and balls for the glittering Yuletide season is fast approaching. Trim the door and entrance, the mantel and walls and don't forget the upstairs hall.

Be lavish with your offerings from the forest. Let the spicy smell of balsam and fir, pine and spruce spread through each nook and cranny of your greens-bedecked home.

Once the greens are hung, bring out the shiny baybles and sparkling "snow dust" to ornament nature's art. But keep your touch light, not lavish. Deck rather than dominate the natural beauty of the branches.

Popular 'Kissing' Balls

Among ornaments which attractively blend with woodland cuttings are the popular Christmas balls, often called "kissing balls" or "mistletoe" balls.

These are versatile treasures; they can swing from foyer chandeliers securing a sprig of mistletoe; they can be placed upright on the television set or, in the miniature version, be set on the buffet table as unusual place cards.

While the balls look dainty, they are quite sturdy in construction and not difficult to make. Handled with care, and packed away in tissue, they will last many holiday seasons.

Use String or Tulle

The balls can be made in two versions — out of string or of plastic foam covered with tulle or net. Both take a minimum of time and materials.

To fashion a ball from string: Combine one cup sugar and one cup water. Boil syrup until sticky. Inflate medium-size balloon. Wet balloon all over with syrup. While wet, wind heavy crochet string thickly over balloon, making sure that at end where balloon is tied, that string is pushed together to form small opening.

Sprinkle on glitter dust while wet. Hang balloon on string to dry about four days. When perfectly dry, prick balloon with pin and remove from ball via opening previously formed.

'Puff' Balls

Fasten mistletoe, tiny ornaments and sprigs of green to inside of ball and hang from ceiling. Or place ball and other ornamentation on plastic foam base and surround with greens for a standing ornament.

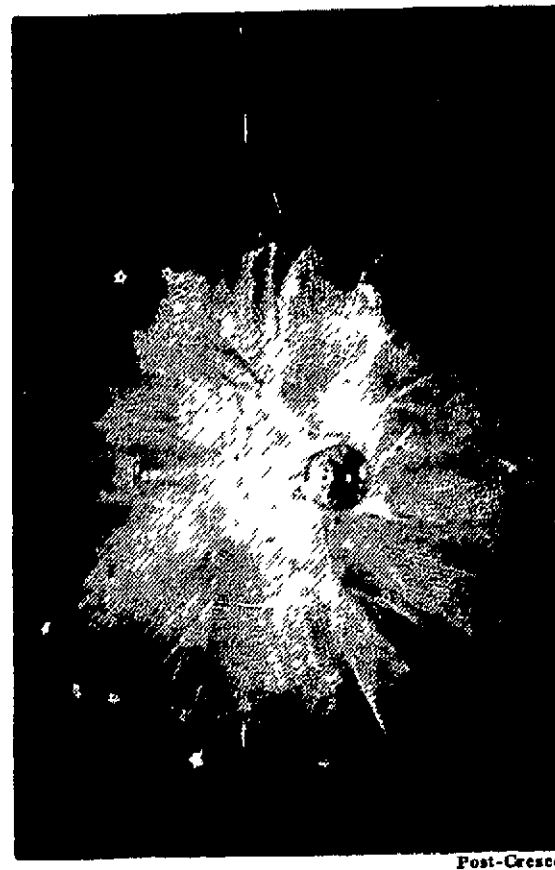

The fluffy tulle or net balls can be aptly termed "puff" balls. One-half yard of tulle or net is needed to cover one medium-sized plastic foam ball.

Cut material into 4-by-5 inch pieces. With rubber cement, glue sequins on each corner of individual pieces. Allow to dry.

Pinch for 'Gathers'

Then pluck each decorated piece by the center, pinching lightly for "gathered" effect. Take long straight pin, put through sequin, then through material and pin on ball. Sequin will help hold material in place.

Begin pinning material to ball on bottom and work around until entire area is covered. Attach other ornaments and glitter dust as preferred. Hang from ceiling or use as upright ornament with greens.

Wed 81 Years, Pair Will Repeat Honeymoon Trip

Fairview, Utah — The Peter Petersons started their 81st year of married life today with another honeymoon trip in prospect for the future.

The aged couple—he is 98 and she is 97—hope to repeat the honeymoon trip they made by horse-drawn wagon from St. George, Utah, to this central Utah community. They were married in the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) temple at St. George Dec. 11, 1878.

Designing Woman

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

A tree that goes right through the glass of a picture window—this is a Christmas 1958 double-header idea, to decorate both outdoors and indoors. Of course it's two trees, but a pair so well matched that the two seem to form a single tree, extra full.

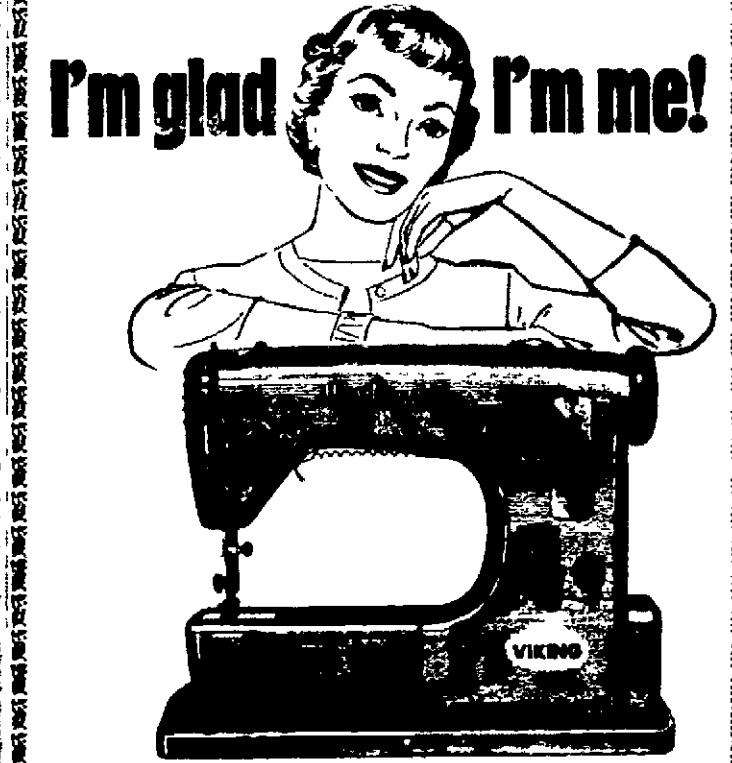

Branches must be cut from the trees on the sides that will be nearest the glass so clusters won't flatten against it, but a slight turning of some branches that angle toward the glass will make the greenery look thicker.

The tree design pictured a good extra supply handy to be designed by Frank Carloti, who designed the room that will be his unusual corner fireplace, and it's a good one especially for the room that's too small to take so tall a tree, and it could go on a curved surface as well as on a curved one. Illness Plagues Guests at White House State Dinner

Washington — Illness plagued the guests at the state dinner opening the White House social season Thursday night.

Two of the guests of honor were absent because of illness and two guests became ill at the dinner table.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower launched the social season with a dinner for 80 in honor of the Supreme Court.

Warren, Frankfurter Absent

But Chief Justice Warren, stricken with a virus infection, and Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter, still hospitalized from a mild heart disturbance, were unable to attend.

Then as the elaborate dinner got underway at the huge E-shaped table decked with pink carnations, two of the women guests became ill.

It was reported that Mrs. Eisenhower personally dispatched one of three doctor guests, Brig Gen. Thomas W. Mattingly, to aid Mrs. Howard Simpson of Baltimore, wife of the president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Ill Before Dinner

Mattingly, a heart specialist, said Mrs. Simpson suffered from an attack of very rapid heart action, but it was not serious.

First to leave the table, even before she had a chance to try the food, was Mrs. Harold Tinney, one of a group of Newport, R. I. friends the Eisenhowers had invited specially.

The nature of her illness was not disclosed.

Stumbles on Steps

Earlier, Mrs. Warren, who came despite her husband's illness, stumbled as she mounted the steps of the North Portico alone. Regaining her balance she smilingly commented: "It's obvious I need my husband."

She was seated in the place of honor at the right of President Eisenhower. Justice Hugo Black, the ranking court guest, sat next to Mrs. Eisenhower.

Mamie Wears Pink

Both Mrs. Warren and the First Lady turned up in pink. Mrs. Eisenhower's dress was a Nettie Rosenstein peau de soie with a Queen of Scots neckline.

Mrs. Eisenhower carried two white orchids as she strode briskly with the president into the East ballroom for an after dinner musicale that included selections by 15 feminine harpists.

The dinner ran almost an hour overtime and about 150 additional guests invited just for the 10 p.m. after-dinner musicale, had to wait downstairs.

Youngsters Sad When Folks Gone

Nobody can take a mother's place in a child's life and if it is at all possible somebody should be at home to receive the children when they get home from school.

If parents could only know what a feeling of desolation falls on a child's spirit when he arrives home and finds an empty house, they would do all they could to make certain somebody was there to greet them.

One day Rachel's mother was called away from home so when the little girl got home from school that afternoon her mother did not meet her as usual. Grandmother and Aunt May and Grandpa were there. Rachel looked dolefully around the room and said, "Nobody's home, seems it."

Older children have the same feeling when they get home to discover there is nobody there. They miss the feeling of home, the feeling that here are those who have time for them, who want them, who are ready to listen to the day's disasters, victories, problems, stories, with sympathy and understanding. To meet silence, the coldness of a house without its mistress or family, is to know loneliness in depths.

Children who habitually meet this at home are likely to leave the place and, having no other recourse, look for friends elsewhere. This is likely to have very unhappy results.

Mrs. Yul Brynner, Homemaker, Works in Cancer Research

BY DOROTHY ROE Associated Press Women's Editor

Hollywood, Calif. — When adoring women fans mob Yul Brynner on the street, tear buttons from his clothing and fight for autographs, his wife, the former Virginia Gilmore, doesn't turn a blonde hair.

"I think it's fine. If nobody noticed him, I'd worry. Yul is She's blonde, glamorous and a one-time well known actress. But now she's content just to be the wife of the actor with the most famous shaved head in Hollywood. Here is a profile of Mrs. Yul Brynner, the first in a series on wives of top movie stars.

big enough to take care of himself," she says.

If there is any jealousy in the Brynner family, it's probably on Yul's part. And the cause is not another man, but a microscope.

Aids Cancer Research

For the last two years the glamorous Virginia, a former star of stage and screen, has spent most of her waking hours doing microscopic photography in connection with her work in cancer research at Mt. Sinai hospital here.

"I work from 9 to 5 every day at the hospital," says she. "And often I bring the slides home with me and do some work in the evening. I guess Yul does get a little tired of that sometimes. But then he has his own hobby of photography, and when I persuaded him to develop some of my cell photographs in his dark room, he got interested too."

Son, Rocky, 12

The Brynner family—Yul, Virginia and son Rocky, 12—celebrated Christmas the weekend before Thanksgiving this year, because Brynner left to take over the part of the late Tyrone Power in the movie, "Solomon and Sheba," being filmed abroad.

Virginia's present from her famous, shaven-pated husband was a sable stole big enough for a blanket.

Virginia will miss her dynamic mate while he is on location in Europe, but she won't have much time to waste in moping. She's much too busy with her work.

"I find the story of living cells more romantic and dramatic than any part I ever played on the stage," says she. "I got interested in it a couple of years ago when I was looking for something to keep me busy and volunteered for work at the new hospital here. I was assigned to cancer research, and started out just gathering up test tubes and doing such odd jobs. Then I got acquainted with Drs. Marianne and Francis Masin, that wonderful husband-and-wife research team whose work is getting such great acclaim right now. They started to train me, and I became fascinated with the work.

"Then while Yul was making 'The Journey' in Vienna last year, I went along and studied at the University of Vienna. The Masins arranged for me to take courses in microscopic photography, and by the time Yul finished his picture I had earned my degree as a cytologist—that means study of single cells. Now I could get a job in any lab in the country."

Californian

Virginia is a native Californian who attended the University of California at Berkeley before deciding to try her luck on the New York stage. She was an established actress, with 30 movies and a number of successful Broadway plays to her credit.

"After our marriage I never had any desire to go back to the stage or screen," says Virginia.

TV Show

"We did do a daily 30-minute TV show together for a while in the early days, when we were broke. But then Rocky was born and I had to stay home and take care of him because we didn't have enough money to hire a nursemaid.

"Later, when the money problem was solved, I couldn't bear to turn my child over to a stranger. Now Rocky's in prep school and is only at home on weekends, so I have time for outside work. That's why I went into this research. And I'm glad I chose that rather than going back to acting. No family is big enough for two stars."

In Good Taste

Invitation To Wedding Correct

Dear Mrs. Post: My brother was divorced many years ago and has made his home with us ever since. He has a daughter who is living with his former wife, who is married again. However, the daughter has always been very fond of her father and comes to our house at least once a week to visit him. Now comes her wedding invitation, sent in her mother's and stepfather's names, just as though her own father didn't exist. He is very much hurt over this. Wasn't this very belittling to him?

Answer: I'm sorry, but you are quite wrong! No matter what the feelings of the parents might be, it would be in very worst taste to have included his name on the invitations. In other words, the absence of his name is a requirement of propriety and is not in any way belittling to the bride's father. His importance is shown when he walks up the aisle of the church with his daughter and gives her away.

Include This Guest

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married shortly and was given a bridal shower last week. One of the women present at the shower is one I did not intend to invite to my wedding reception, as she is not a really intimate friend. Am I under any obligation to invite her to the reception because she was at my shower?

Answer: If your reception is not going to be so overcrowded that there will not be room for her, you should invite her to it. The fact that she came to a shower given for you shows that she considers herself to be an intimate friend of yours.

Employment Dips 1.9 Pct. This Fall

Decrease of 420 Workers
Double That Anticipated

Neenah — A 1.9 per cent employment drop between mid-September and mid-November was experienced by 43 Twin City firms reporting employment information to the state employment service office here.

A. P. Engbretson, employment office manager, said some decrease is normal for this period but this year's decline, though small percentagewise, was double the loss anticipated by these firms two months ago.

Current employment in November for these firms totaled 11,209 as compared with 11,629 in September. The decline was general throughout all segments of local industry where, a decline in manufacturing at this time usually is offset by small increase in trades and services.

Below 1957 Total
Most significant Engbretson declared, is that the decline dropped the November employment figure below that of a year ago when 11,555 workers were employed. This is a situation extremely unusual in this area, he stated.

As usual, 87 per cent of the net change was in manufacturing industries and almost all of that in the predominant paper industry. The decrease in employment of women, while less than half of the total decrease, was a high percentage of all women employed when compared with the decrease in male employment.

No significant change is anticipated in either the next 2-month or 4-month periods.

Some improvement usually is noted by mid-March, he mentioned.

Optimists to Have Party at Boat House

Neenah — Optimists club will have its Christmas party for members, their wives and guests at the Whiting boat house at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. A trio of three members will sing and an Appleton instrumental trio will play. Al Groves is general chairman. The "Uncle Merv" awards will be presented at the party.

Neenah — Roy Cluberton was elected to his seventh term as president of Kimberly-Clark Local No. 482 of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers in an all-day balloting Wednesday at Germania hall.

Also reelected were Robert McCann as vice president, Robert Skalmoski as recording secretary, Tony Talarczyk as financial secretary, Walter McCann as treasurer, Bill Krueger as inside guard, Edward Jahns as outside guard and Walter Lemke as trustee for three years.

It will be the third term for McCann, the eighth for Skalmoski, tenth for Talarczyk, 11th for McCann and 14th for Jahns in those posts.

On the Lakeview mill board of unity will be Fred Behnke, Tom Leach and Arthur Langford while on that mill's bargaining committee will be James Lockery, Rufin Skiba, Eugene Frier and Robert Ertl. Badger - Globe mill's board of unity will be Ernest Kruse and Reinhardt Sturtz and its bargaining committee, will include Carl Landskron, Paul Stommel and Donald Thornton.

Installation of officers will be Dec. 18 at Germania hall.

Five Neenah Rinks Ready for Skating

Neenah — Five Neenah skating rinks will be ready this weekend, Park Supt. Edgar Patterson said today. These rinks include the Green, Doty, Cook and Washington parks and Wilson school.

Those at Hoover school, Taft school and the Second ward park probably will not be ready until Monday, especially if the cold weather remains. The rinks need about six to eight coatings and snow to bank them.

Santa Claus Float

Neenah — The fire department's Santa Claus float will tour the First and Tenth wards tonight, starting out at 5:30 in the southern end of the First ward.

Neenah Man Fined $250 in Traffic Death

R. W. Koski Admits Negligent Homicide At Oshkosh Court

Oshkosh — Robert W. Koski, 37, 939 Hunt avenue, Neenah, pleaded guilty of negligent homicide in the traffic death of James Gehrt, 33, 929 Gale avenue, Neenah, and was fined $250 and costs by Municipal Judge S. J. Luchsinger this morning.

Koski made the plea through his attorney, John Menn, Appleton. He also was put on probation for one year and surrendered his driver's license to the court. Judge Luchsinger warned Koski not to use an occupational license.

Koski was driver of a car which collided with a car driven by Gehrt at a Menasha intersection on Nov. 27. It was Menasha's first traffic death in almost seven years.

Menn, in entering the guilty plea, told the court Koski had excellent insurance and ample coverage. He said Koski couldn't deny going through the stop sign. Koski submitted willingly to a doctor's examination which showed he was not under the influence of alcohol, the attorney said.

The lawyer stated Koski is a contractor with a family.

Agent Warns Too Much Oats in Feed Ration Slows Egg Production

Oshkosh — Two much oats in the ration will slow down egg production, Donald J. Tripp, assistant county agent, cautioned poultry raisers today. The oats crop was a good one this year and the chick-ens like the oats which are heavy and plump. Though oats is higher in protein than corn, it is lower in energy which makes heat.

During cold weather, at least three-fourths of the grain portion of the diet should be corn. This will help keep the birds warm and keep up production. Next spring more oats can be put in the laying ration again.

and was thinking about business matters at the time he went through the arterial. An error was made when Koski accelerated to avoid the crash rather than bringing the car to a halt, Menn said.

Dist. Atty. Jack Steinhilber recommended the fine and probation. Judge Luchsinger termed it a very unfortunate accident.

Indian Group to Sing in Service At St. Thomas

Menasha — A group of six Oneida Indian church members from the Episcopal Holy Apostles parish at Oneida will sing in their ancient Mohawk language as part of the 9:15 worship service Sunday of St. Thomas Episcopal church.

The tribe has a long association with the Episcopal church, dating back to their conversion to Christianity after establishment of a mission in 1702. As part of their conversion they exchanged the words of their pagan chants for Christian hymns which have been presented in the Indian language and with Indian music.

This phase of their worship is dying out as only the older tribal members are able to sing in that way. The younger ones do not know the language.

The Oneida tribe came to Wisconsin about 1825 and settled at their present parish near Green Bay. The last tribal chief was the Rev. Cornelius Hill, a priest of the Episcopal church. At present, there are 820 members of the Holy Apostles parish which operates a parish school.

Broad Hint Stirs Speculation That British Election Near

London — A broad hint dropped by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan started excited speculation today that Britain's next general election may not be many months away.

The hint came as the prime minister snapped back at a laborite criticism in the house of commons Tuesday night of the conservative government's conduct in the abortive British-French invasion of the Suez two years ago.

"That must be left to the judgment of history and the electors," he told the jeering laborites and added that the election "may come sooner than you think."

Macmillan can call an election any time before his party's 5-year term ends in early 1960. He has promised he would not take the country to the polls during the winter unless special circumstances arose.

Most political pundits Wednesday speculated his latest hint means Britain probably will elect a new house of commons in the spring. The party winning the majority of the seats will name the next government.

Conservative popularity has soared in recent months, but mounting unemployment—officially reported today at 536,027—worries government leaders. It almost certainly will be labor's key campaign plank.

Some indication of the government's chances in a general election may come soon, in four special elections for vacant seats in commons. Two are in safe conservative districts. But two are in marginal areas which will be watched closely as a clue to the temper of the country as a whole.

Holiday customs of Poland, Germany, England and Holland were illustrated by members and guests of the society which annually observes Heritage month each year between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The choir of St. Thomas Episcopal church, under the direction of Perry Kimmell, presented a program of Christmas carols and Mrs. John H. Wulterding introduced John Rutten, who came to this country three years ago from Holland.

"In Holland," Rutten explained, "Christmas presents are opened on December 6, St. Nicholas day. Children put wooden shoes filled with hay and carrots for St. Nick's horse, on their doorsteps at night," he added. "And of course if they've been good children, St. Nick fills them with goodies!"

Christmas day is celebrated Dec. 25 and 26 according to Rutten. Those are friendly, neighborly holidays when most families spend the days at home together or visiting neighbors and relatives.

Rutten, a baker, showed a wooden cookie board which is used traditionally to form holiday cookies. He had brought Dutch Christmas cookies to add to the refreshments which were representative of the different countries Germany, Poland, England and Holland.

Christmas Carols The German heritage was portrayed by the gaily decorated tree and William Griesbach sang several Christmas carols in German, including "O Tannenbaum." "The Night Before Christmas" was read by James Auer substituting for Joan Hoffmann.

Among the traditional Christmas fare served at the event were Polish tea cakes, the recipe as follows:

1 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg yolk slightly beaten
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream the butter and sugar until light; add the egg yolk and mix well. Add flour sifted with salt and mix. Roll dough into small balls, dip in unbeaten egg whites and roll in finely chopped nuts. Place on buttered baking sheet and press down the center of each with a thimble. Bake in a 325-degree oven for 5 minutes. Remove and press down again with thimble and return to oven for about 10 or 15 minutes. Remove from the oven and fill indentation with preserves while still warm.

German lebkuchen is made by combining 2 pounds white sugar, 5 eggs, 5 tablespoons honey, 1 pound shelled almonds (ground), 1 pound citron, grated, the juice of one lemon and one orange, 2 teaspoons cloves, 4 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 cup milk and 1 teaspoon soda. Stir for 15 minutes and add 2 pounds flour and let stand over night. Roll or cut into shapes. Put flour on the tins so they do not stick and bake at 400 degrees for 12 minutes. The cookies may be frosted with a light sugar frosting if desired.

Dutch speculass is made as follows:

1 cup butter
1 cup lard or vegetable shortening
2 cups brown sugar
1 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon soda
4 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cloves
4 cups sifted flour
1 cup chopped nuts

Cream the shortening and sugar. Add sour cream alternately with sifted dry ingredients. Stir in nuts. Chill the dough in the refrigerator overnight. Roll thin and cut into shapes and bake in a 375 degree oven for 10 or 15 minutes.

According to Dutch custom, the most perfect ginger figure is always named Saint Nicholas.

Zephyrs Vie With Cadets

Menashans Shoot for Third Straight FVCC Cage Victory;
Premontre Posts 1-0 Record

Menasha — St. Mary will attempt to protect its 2-0 record in the Fox Valley Catholic conference when it enters Green Bay Premontre at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Menasha High school gym.

The Cadets go into the game against the club with which it shared the title last year with a 1-0 slate on Thursday night's 57-54 came-from-behind win over St. John.

Coach Ralph McClone's improving Zephyrs now have an overall 3-3 record for the year and wins over Stevens Point, Paecll and Fond du Lac Springs, two previously-unbeaten squads, in their last two outings.

Premontre's win over St. John broke its 3-game losing chain. The Cadets opened the season impressively with three straight triumphs. They bested Wausau Newman 41-38, Sturgeon Bay 71-57 and West Green Bay 65-54.

But then the proverbial roof caved in for Coach Ted Fritsch's athletes. They were humiliated 69-34 by Racine St. Catherine, dropped a 70-63 decision to a not-too-highly-rated East Green Bay squad and then Tuesday came out on the short end of a 66-61 match against Algoma. The Cadets made six more field goals than the Wolves but Al-

Macs Acquire Clubrooms on Main Street

Expect Building To be Ready for Use on Saturday

Menasha — The acquisition of clubrooms for members of the Menasha Athletic association was announced today by Jerry Heiss, association president.

The new clubrooms are in the building formerly occupied by Dr. George Pratt's office, located on Main street next to the University of Wisconsin Extension center.

Members are readying the place so that meetings and social events may be held there in the near future, Heiss reported.

Heiss said the association hopes to have the building open at 6 p.m. Saturday. It will also be open next week at that time. He pointed out that some equipment is still needed, including table and chairs and the public is invited to stop in and acquaint themselves with the new setup and the organization.

Founded in 1948, The Menasha Athletic organization, or Macs as they are more familiarly known, was founded back in 1948 by 12 men who wanted to promote city recreation and other events. It is a chartered organization and is governed by 12 directors and a lawyer who make up the board.

The organization is open to persons 21 years of age and the roster includes members from Menasha, Neenah and Appleton. It lists as its purpose "to promote athletic, social and educational activities throughout the city for the benefit of the public; to create a foundation of friendship and benevolence."

Sponsors Teams

The association sponsors a baseball team in the Fox River Valley league and its basketball squad plays in the City and Eastern Wisconsin leagues. It also has a cribbage league, professional basketball programs and a family picnic.

Officers are Heiss, president; Pete Rohe, vice president; Dick Rohe, secretary, and Junior Ropella, treasurer. Officers and directors are elected at the annual meeting in January.

Acquisition of a clubhouse or clubrooms has been the goal of the group for a number of years.

The Distinguished Rifleman Badge was presented to Ron Larson, seated, by Dick Zeumer at the Boys Brigade building Thursday night. Larson was the first Brigader to receive the award.

Kimberly is at Two Rivers in tonight's feature game. Both have 2-0 M-E marks to tie Shawano for the lead. The latter completes the schedule with its fray at Clintonville.

Showdown Appears to be Nearing in Packers' Crisis

Packers' Ford Says He Is Set to Retire

Howton Hints He Is Thinking Of Quitting

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service

Pasadena — Len Ford is the Packers' most likely retirement suspect.

How about it, Len? "As of my thoughts right now, Sunday's game will be my last professional football game. Circumstances could make me change my mind, but right now I'm planning on retiring for good as a player," the big defensive end said.

Playing Eleventh Season Ford is in his eleventh professional season—two with the Los Angeles Rams, eight with the Cleveland Browns and one with the Packers. He will be 33 years of age next February.

"No, I'm not the football player I was five, six years ago," he said in answer to a question, adding:

"I was faster then and more active. But football has changed a lot. They used to pull the guards out to block against us defensive ends, which meant that I got a start of two or three steps. With that start, it was easy to overpower the guard or run around him and just step over the back.

"Now they play it different. The tackle plays lead on us with defensive ends. You don't get those two steps.

"It's hard, but they keep changing football and changing during the game."

Anybody Else? Ford is one of the game's all-time defensive stars, but he admitted "I'm not what I used to be."

Anybody else going to retire? "This is the time of the season — especially when it's a bad one—four or five of the boys will swear they'll never do the moleskins again."

Unless an athlete's 30-plus—like Ford, there isn't much use taking retirement talk seriously. A good example of that was Tobin Rote who swore he'd never play again after the '56 season. That, in part, prompted his trade to Detroit. Now, apparently, Rote will play indefinitely.

There might be a similar situation developing with Rote's onetime teammate from Rice — Billy Howton, president of the NFL Players association. Howton, who turned 28 just last July 5, is giving retirement some thought.

There is also this to consider: The Packers' poor season could force a few unplanned retirements and bring about wholesale changes.

Poor season or not, the Rams who battle the Packers in the coliseum Sunday let it be known today that they haven't forgotten the tough fight they had in Green Bay Nov. 16.

93-Yard Play Duane Putman, the Rams' all-pro guard, said: "We can't forget the Packers led us 7-3, right up to the closing minutes of the first quarter and that it took a 93-yard pass play (Bill Wade to "Red" Phillips) for the Rams to score their first touchdown. Our second touchdown didn't come until the fourth quarter and it took a pass interception by Don Burroughs to set up the scoring drive."

Told that the Packers are

Sophomore Jim Schulze will be a starter in the back court tonight for the Lawrence college basketball team which opens its home season against St. Olaf. The 5-8 former Appleton High star has averaged 11.3 points for the Vikes in the first three games.

Catholic High Will Establish Athletic Board

Representatives of the five Catholic parishes in Appleton Wednesday night took the first steps in the formation of a city-wide athletic association for the new Catholic High school.

The group plans to establish a board of directors and elect officers at St. Mary's next Wednesday night. Four members of each parish will be appointed to the board.

One of the board's first major jobs will be to select a coach to direct a full athletic program — which will include football, basketball, track, intramurals and physical education. The Rev. Norbert Vande Loo, route 1, Appleton, the temporary athletic director, is receiving applications.

The school is under construction and is scheduled to be ready for occupancy in September, 1959.

Father Vande Loo presided over last night's preliminary meeting.

Final '58 Accounting May Come At Monday's Committee Parley; New Support Spurt for Lambeau

Green Bay — Amid hints that a showdown is nearing in the current Green Bay Packers crisis there has been another spurt of support for "Curly" Lambeau, a founder of the National Football league club.

Lambeau said Thursday night in Los Angeles he might be interested in another term family lived in Green Bay, his home town, and added:

"And I might return if given the opportunity if it can be in a capacity to do the job it takes to build the team to power again. I repeat, if I could be in a position to help the Packers, I might be interested."

His last remark tended to confirm earlier speculation that he would demand a non-interference pledge from the management committee and boards that have run the team since he left in 1949. He did not, however, spell out the conditions. The Packers troubles have been attributed by some to the present administrative setup.

Collier Says Rumors Are News to Him

Kentucky football Coach Blanton Collier said "That's complete news to me," upon hearing rumors Thursday that he would succeed Ray McLean as coach of the Green Bay Packers.

"I never heard anything about it," Collier continued. "Nobody has said anything about such a thing to me, neither the Packers nor anyone else. I have been out of town in western Kentucky for three days and I haven't heard anything like that."

at the helm "If I could be in a position to help the Packers."

Reports here indicated the final accounting for the 1958 showing of the Packers could come Monday at a meeting of the 13-man executive committee. The team is last in the Western conference with a 1-9-1 record and faces its season finale with the Rams in Los Angeles without much chance of a victory. The entire team will fly to Green Bay right after the game.

There was nothing to discount earlier reports that either Head Coach Ray McLean or General Manager Vern Lewellen, or both, could get the ax. The feeling was that Lewellen was in the greater danger and that McLean could improve his standing with a respectable showing Sunday. McLean is in his first season as head coach. Lewellen has been general manager five years.

Slackers Distributed The first public signs of support for Lambeau's return were found earlier in the week in Green Lake where two businessmen were circulating petitions asking that he be called back to run the team.

Thursday Fritz Van of Green Bay, a columnist on a small sports magazine, began distributing auto bumper stickers and window cards declaring: "We Want Lambeau." He said several hundred had been handed out.

Reached by the Associated Press in Los Angeles, Lambeau said "naturally I'm interested in the welfare of the Packers, but I have not heard officially—or even unofficially—from anybody connected with the team with authority to contact me." He noted his

Shreveport Will Have Southern Association Franchise Again

Shreveport, La. — After a 50-year lapse, Shreveport will again have a Southern association baseball club with purchase of Little Rock's franchise, manager and 34 players.

A 5-man syndicate headed by Bonneau Peters bought the Arkansas team's papers Thursday at an announced price.

The Shreveport club will again be called the "Sports," Peters said, and will be managed by Les Feden who directed the Little Rock entry the past season.

With the purchase came Little Rock's working agreement with the Kansas City athletics of the American league.

State Fair Harness Racing Ended by Board

Madison — The end of the harness racing, a feature of the State Fair for a century, was voted Thursday by the state board of agriculture. Vote of the board was unanimous, and dealt specifically with the 1959 program.

However, upon recommendation of fair manager W. M. Masterson, the board also voted to tear down the three horse barns on the grounds.

Claremont, N. H. — Tommy Garrow, 137, Claremont, knocked out Lester Gonzales, 144, Boston, 2.

"It's just too bad Bobby Layne wasn't with the Pittsburgh Steelers at the start of the season. He would have helped them win the championship."

That's a heap of praise for the blond-haired Texan. And it comes from a guy who played a heap of football for the Steelers several years ago — "Bullet" Bill Dudley.

Said Dudley: "Layne is really something. I've been watching that boy for a long time. He's as fine a quarterback as I've ever seen."

Have Won 6

Layne joined the Steelers after the first two games. Since his arrival from Detroit in exchange for quarterback Earl Morrall, the Steelers have won six, tied one and lost two.

The Steelers wind up the 1958 campaign Saturday against the Chicago Cardinals in a nationally-televised game (CBS-12:30 p.m., CST) from Pitt stadium.

The rest of the NFL clubs close out the season Sunday with the Cleveland Browns—New York Giants contest in Yankee stadium in New York the No. 1 attraction.

A victory or a tie for the Browns will send them into the title game against Baltimore, the Western conference with nine victories and two defeats. New York has won eight and lost three.

Should the Giants triumph Sunday, a playoff with the Browns will be held the following Sunday in New York.

In other games Sunday, the Baltimore Colts travel to San Francisco, the Chicago Bears play host to Detroit, Green Bay tangles with Los Angeles and Philadelphia plays Washington.

Frankie Albert To Quit 49ers

San Francisco — Frankie Albert is quitting as head coach of the San Francisco 49ers.

Albert said today he has informed Vic Morabito, principal owner of the pro football team, that he will turn in his resignation after Sunday's game with the Baltimore Colts.

Premontre Quint Edges St. John

Overcomes 7-Point Deficit in Last Period, Wins, 57-74

BY BOB WHITE
Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Premontre's Cadets, playing the role of relentless pursuer to perfection, finally overhauled their quarry Thursday night and made off with victory No. 1 in the Fox Valley Catholic conference.

Down by several going into the fourth quarter, Coach Ted Fritsch's cagers bombarded the nets for 19 home stretch points for a 57-54 decision over Little Chute St. John at the Premontre gym.

Deadlocked at 48-all

Seemingly out of contention after a lackluster start, the Cadets pulled themselves together with a 500 field goal percentage in the final frame to snatch victory from defeat.

In arrears by 45-38 as the fourth period began, the Cadets outscored the Dutchmen, 10-3, in the first three minutes of the final heat for a 48-48 deadlock.

St. John's Don Hermens bagged two free throws at that point to put the Dutchmen back in the lead but Gary Kroner's jump shot squared it again at 50-50. Two free throws each by Ebbens and Hermens set the board at 54-50 with 2:15 to go but Premontre's Jim Cibula rammed home a jump shot and a free throw for 54-53.

The Cadets broke up a St. John pass play with 1:30 remaining and maneuvered for position.

With 40 seconds to go, the opening came, and it was Kroner who capitalized on it.

Taps in Rebound

Gary tapped in a rebound for a 55-54 lead and the home forces immediately employed the press to preserve it.

John Craig, Premontre's reserve center, drove in for an insurance layup after intercepting a St. John pass with 12 seconds to go.

St. John, firing with consistency in the first half, led, 12-11, at the first quarter break and 30-23 at the midway point. Each club scored 15 in the third quarter.

Premontre's Bob Brusky, senior forward, was the game's leading scorer with 14 points. Cibula bagged 13, center Daryl De Steffen 11, and Kroner 10 in the winners' well-balanced attack.

Tom Geerts, St. John's lanky center, was high man in the losing cause with 11 points.

Statistic 11 y. Premontre outshot the Dutchmen 374 to 322 from the floor and 671

Unprecedented Move

Wrigley to Open Cub Ledger to His Players

Chicago — In what is believed to be an unprecedented move by a club owner, Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs is going to throw open his ledgers to his players.

First baseman Dale Long, Cub player representative, will fly to Chicago Monday from his North Adams, Mass., home at Wrigley's invitation to peruse the club's books.

"Light of Truth"

"The light of truth is the strongest argument," said Wrigley. "Remove the aura of secrecy and it's no longer a cause for suspicion."

"The thing I want Dale Long and the players to learn is that gross receipts and net income are vastly different things."

"He will be shown just how much our operation costs, where the money is going and how expenses are met from year to year. We have nothing to hide and he can look at

Lubanski Takes Good Lead Into Bowling Finals

Detroit Is 4.04 Points Up on Ellis; Don Carter Third

Chicago — Some of the nation's leading men and women bowlers make their final bids today for the honors in the World Invitational tournament. There was a possibility both defending champions would fail to retain their titles.

Eddie Lubanski of Detroit held a fairly comfortable lead as the 16 men finalists started firing in the final 16 games of the 64-game head-to-head matches. However, two shooters, including Don Carter, 1957 winner, still were considered very much in the race for the $5,000 first prize.

Up For Grabs

In the women's division, the title held by Mrs. Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., appeared up for grabs. At least seven of the 16 finalists, including Mrs. Ladewig, were considered in a position to take the crown. Only 1.33 Petersen points separated the first and seventh place bowlers.

Tonight's final match will be nationally televised (NBC 9 p.m. CST) replacing the regular Friday night boxing program.

Lubanski, who has often been a contender but never a champion in this rough match game competition, led second-place Don Ellis of Chicago by 4.04 points.

Lubanski finished Thursday's shooting with 240.15 points compared with 236.11 by Ellis. In third place is defending champion Carter of St. Louis with 233.10 points.

In the women's division, Pert Phyllis Notaro of Brant, N. Y., a suburb of Buffalo, squeaked into first place Thursday by the slender margin of .01.

Miss Notaro, who finished second in last year's tourney to Mrs. Ladewig, had 109.41 points at the end of 24 of a scheduled 32 games.

In second place is former National Doubles champion Elvira Toepfer of Detroit with 109.40.

Defending champion Mrs. Ladewig is in sixth place but is only 1.29 behind Miss Notaro.

Mrs. Ellie Konicek, Wisconsin's only representative in the women's division, dropped from eighth to eleventh place Thursday.

Going into today's final four rounds the Racine housewife had 103.22 Peterson points and 4,572 pins, only one pin out of tenth place.

The Logans have another son, John Jr. Mrs. Logan also has a son, Bruce, by a previous marriage.

Wolfner Denies Grid Cards Will Move to Houston, Dallas

Chicago — While rumors persist the Chicago Cardinals will move their National Football league franchise, Walter Wolfner, the club's managing director, said today "we'll play in Chicago next year."

Reports continue the Cardinals may wind up in Houston or Dallas. A year ago, a Houston group reportedly offered a million dollars for the franchise. Miami also has been mentioned as a new Cardinal home.

Kentucky and Xavier Triumph

Oklahoma Quint Turns Back Minnesota, 52-45

By the Associated Press

Kentucky and Xavier of Cincinnati, the NCAA and NIT basketball tournament winners last March, have taken right up where they left off last season. Both are unbeaten.

Kentucky, ranked second in this week's Associated Press poll, and Xavier, No. 16, looked impressive Thursday night. The Wildcats clawed Southern Methodists, 72-60, for their fourth straight while the Musketeers coasted to a 69-52 triumph over Iona for their third in a row.

Two sophomores, Billy Ray Lickert and Dick Parsons, paced Kentucky over 18th-ranked SMU at Lexington. Lickert clicked for 23 points and Parsons chipped in with 19.

Oklahoma State, ranked twentieth, bowed to Baylor, 43-37, being limited to just two field goals in the second half.

Oklahoma held Minnesota scoreless for a 12-minute span in the second half to turn back the Big Ten team, 52-45. Chicago whipped Creighton, 67-54 for its fourth straight victory.

Packers Trail NFL in 8 Categories

(From AP Dispatches)

National Football league team statistics show that the Green Bay Packers are last in eight different categories.

Team records show that the Packers have made fewer first downs and allowed more than any team in the league. They collected 160 but have given up 221.

The Packers also have allowed more points, 348, and more yards, 4,258, than any other team.

They've scored the fewest points, 173, and clicked for the league low total of touchdowns, 21. The Packers have scored only seven touchdowns rushing and that again is the lowest of the lot.

The record also shows that Green Bay has lost 287 yards attempting to pass for another high mark in the league. The Packer offense has gained 2,962 yards, only 47 more than the last place team, the Detroit Lions.

Must Control Hawkins to Win At Home Saturday

Madison — The University of Wisconsin basketball team, defeated in the three games it has played to date, renews non-conference competition here Saturday night against Notre Dame.

The Badgers have lost to Marquette, Southern Methodist and Rice.

"Bud" Foster, Wisconsin coach, confident his charges can still come through, said it was likely he would start the same team that opened against Southern Methodist in the last outing.

This lineup had Bob Barneson and Fred Clow at the forward positions, Ray Gross at center and Brian Kulas and Steve Stephens at the guard spots.

Wisconsin's major problem will be to devise a method of keeping Notre Dame's Tom Hawkins under control. He was his team's high scorer last season with 730 points and he is considered the best rebound man the visiting possesses.

Expect Cronin To be Named AL Head Soon

Joe Wants to Move League Office to Boston

New York —(AP)— The new president of the American league will be Joe Cronin and his office will be located in Boston, an authoritative source informed The Associated Press, Thursday.

The informant said Cronin, general manager of the Red Sox, will take over the post shortly after the Christmas holidays.

The source also disclosed that Cronin had been informed of his acceptance by the owners last week before the baseball meetings in Washington had ended.

Cronin, 52, is expected to receive a 5-year contract at $50,000 a year and will be allowed an annual $15,000 expense account.

He will succeed 72-year-old Will Harridge, who resigned as league president Dec. 3. Harridge still had eight years to serve on his 10-year contract.

Dinner Slated Feb. 1

"The owners want to have their new president before the New York writers' baseball dinner (Feb. 1)," the source said. "They don't like the idea of having a lame duck in the president's chair."

The "lame duck" was in reference to Harridge, who agreed to stay on until his successor was selected.

The committee named to pick a recommended successor definitely has contacted Cronin. It reportedly was told he would be "flattered and honored" if chosen.

Cronin refused to discuss the matter except to say that he knew nothing more on the subject than he did when he left the Washington meetings.

Cronin, however, notified the committee he planned to move the office of the presidency from Chicago to Boston after his official acceptance.

In Chicago, Charles Comiskey, vice president of the White Sox, said he would "go down the wire" to keep American league offices in Chicago, if Cronin is named president of the league.

According to a committee member, Cronin will request a meeting of the American league owners either in New York or in Boston the first week in January.

continuing work on a spread, with Joe Francis back, Ram Coach Sid Gillman said: "The Packers play sound football so we won't put all of our eggs in one basket defensively. We'll try and be ready for everything they might throw at us."

Asked why Francis was starting at quarterback, McLean told the LA press: "We haven't been winning with either Babe Parilli or Bart Starr. I feel Francis is deserving of a starting chance. How he moves the team will determine his stay out there."

'Working Wonders'

Despite the fact that the Packers are 17-point underdogs, they are being treated with great respect by the press and television, which want to make sure the local prides finish second with a 4-4 record.

Regardless, it's a good feeling for the Packers to note that they are being treated with great respect.

More sunshine and 88-degree weather was on tap for the Bays in practice today.

"It's working wonders for our injured players, and everybody should be in top condition," McLean said.

The Packers didn't have a good practice Thursday, but there's an old saying in pro football that a poor Thursday means a good Sunday. The offense was having an awful time trying to complete a pass, while the defense made several interceptions.

The spirit of the squad is high. McLean is hoping it remains through Sunday afternoon.

Guy Rodgers Has Easy Transition To Pro Basketball

By The Associated Press

Guy Rodgers, Temple's All-America last season, has made the transition from college basketball to the pro ranks without faltering.

In his National Basketball association debut Thursday night after a 6-months army hitch, Rodgers scored 24 points and handed out nine assists. But his brilliant performance went for naught as the Philadelphia Warriors dropped a 123-114 decision to the Boston Celtics.

The Detroit Pistons took the measure of the Western division leading St. Louis Hawks for the second straight night, 107-101. The Syracuse Nats whipped Minneapolis, 101-99, in overtime.

The Investor

Well-Rounded Portfolio Contains Various Gradations of Stocks

BY WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. I am 22 years old, have just inherited $10,000 and am very ignorant about stocks. My broker advises me to invest the $10,000 in the following stocks for growth:

American Cyanamid, California Electric Power, Consolidated Edison, Foote Mineral and International Paper.

I do not want to speculate. I want to buy stocks and forget about them for several years, until I need the money. What do you think of these issues? I am particularly concerned about Foote Mineral. It doesn't seem to move much.

A. Your broker has suggested what is called a well-rounded portfolio. That's because it has everything from stable, investment - grade issues to various grades of growth hopefuls.

U. S. Bonds

But it's time someone explained the financial facts of life to you. There is some speculation in all stocks. And the more growth you are looking for, the bigger the risk you have to take.

If you don't want to take any kind of chance at all, you had better sock the money away in government savings bonds or in a bank. But if you do buy the stocks suggested to you, you won't be taking too much of a chance.

American Cyanamid is a high - quality stock with a growth tradition that should continue. California Electric is a sound investment. It won't be a high - flyer but should do well in price and dividends over the years. International Paper is another quality stock. It's long-term trend should continue to be upwards.

Foote Minerals would be the riskiest of the bunch. It should gain in value because of its expanding markets for strategic metals and chemicals. Con. Edison would be your most stable investment. It should be the one you would have the least worry about.

You'll notice that I used the word "should" about each issue. There's no stock that you can buy, forget about and be guaranteed that at some time in the future will be worth more than you paid for it.

Always Cautious

Q. Do I detect a note of caution creeping into your column recently? Do you perhaps think that the stock market is too high just now?

A. What do you mean, recently? I've been trying to preach caution from the day that I sat down to write my first column. Caution is one of the things that any sensible investor must always keep in mind.

Is the market high right now? I don't know. That's for the professional traders to worry about. The wise investor, small or large, can beat any short - term swings in stock prices by following a steady purchase program. On a really long - range basis, stocks of sound, well-managed companies will go up.

This may sound almost like a direct contradiction to the previous answer in this column. The map in the preceding question asked about a $10,000 1-shot investment. He won't have the advantage of buying when stock prices are up and when they are down. That's the difference.

Q. In 1954, acting on a tip, I invested $4,000 in Walt Disney productions. My investment is now worth about $25,000. I am looking for new worlds to conquer. Any suggestions?

A. Yes. Consider yourself one of the most fortunate people in the world and don't figure on ever being that lucky again. Your tip was the one in a thousand that paid off. You'll never find a "hot tip" in this column.

If you're happy with Disney, why not stay with it? But count it as a speculation, not an investment. You go switching around from one risk situation to another and you'll get burned sooner or later.

Minneapolis —(AP)— University of Minnesota policymakers pul the school's troubled athletic and football operations on trial today. But it was questionable whether there would be any early verdict.

The school's board of regents and President J. L. Morrill planned a closed session to probe the Gophers' athletic ailments.

Almost certain to come up at the meeting were proposals for a shakeup in the school's athletic department, aimed specifically at the removal of Ike Armstrong as athletic director and possibly Murray Warmath as football coach.

It was not known whether Morrill — the man who actually must make the decision — was receptive to any plan for an immediate shift. Some regents are known to favor this.

The consensus view was that Morrill might consider making a change eventually if a blue ribbon committee of regents and alumni lettermen pushes strongly for it.

Georgia Judge Issues Decree On Union Dues

Can't be Used for Political Purposes Without Consent

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Compulsory membership in a labor union where dues and other fees are used without the consent of union members to aid in the election of public officials is a violation of the constitution of the United States, according to a decree formally issued this week by a Georgia superior court.

Judge O. L. Long, after presiding at a trial involving nine railroads and 15 unions, issued his written opinion Dec. 8. He writes:

"Said exaction and use of money and said union shop agreements and their enforcement are contrary to the constitution, the law and public policy of this state, and are contrary to the statutes or laws of other states in which the defendant railroads operate. Said exaction and use of money, said union shop agreements, and section 2 (eleventh) of the railway labor act and their enforcement violate the United States constitution which in the First, Fifth, Ninth and Tenth amendments thereto guarantees to individuals protection from such unwarranted invasion of their personal and property rights — including freedom of association, freedom of thought, freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of work, and their political freedom and rights — under the cloak of federal authority. . . ."

The court further decreed that the union should pay back to employees the dues they had paid under protest and under threat of loss of their jobs. The decree adds:

The decree issued in Georgia is not based on the so-called "right to work" law of the state, but on the federal constitution and particularly on the federal law governing collective bargaining on common carriers.

The facts in the case were stipulated in advance by both sides. There is no question but that money collected in some manner from union members has been used for political purposes. The issue of whether this violated the federal corrupt practices act, which prohibits labor unions and corporations from contributing to political campaigns for the election of federal officials, was not involved in the case.

The court merely said it could not differentiate between the sums collected for strictly union purposes and those "extracted from the plaintiffs" for political campaigns and came to the conclusion that the consent of the contributors had not been obtained.

One way out for the unions.

Beaten Sheriff Candidate Faces Beer Sale Charge

Chilton — Alex Pudlo, 50, New Holstein, has been bound over to circuit court to answer a charge of selling beer to a minor. He entered no plea when he was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Edward Shimon in New Holstein Thursday.

Pudlo was the Democratic candidate for sheriff when the alleged sale was made late in October. He asked for a change of venue when he was brought before Justice of the Peace Wilbur R. Winch in November.

Bond of $200 was continued, pending the circuit court hearing.

Chimney Fire Causes Damage at Freedom

Freedom — Damage estimated at $200 was caused in a chimney fire at the Orville Krabbe home, town of Freedom, at 7:30 a. m. Thursday, according to Fire Chief Edward Vandenberg.

Vandenberg said the department remained at the scene until 8:45 a. m. Damage was confined to the chimney.

of course, is to segregate their funds in such a way that union dues are not used for political purposes and only voluntary contributions are employed in campaigns.

Basically, it is questionable whether the federal corrupt practices laws are constitutional, for they interfere with the right of a citizen or group of citizens to express political views through contributions.

The Georgia case does not concern the right to contribute voluntarily but only the forced contribution and the penalty imposed — loss of a job unless union requirements are fulfilled.

Fundamental Issue

The fundamental issue is really compulsory unionization. The so-called right-to-work laws have been mischievously misrepresented as being a method of "busting" unions or of prohibiting collective bargaining.

The truth is that federal laws protect collective bargaining and the unionized shop in which a majority of employees belong to a union. The words "union shop," as used nowadays in labor parlance, mean an all union shop, and this provides that anyone who refused to belong to the union or pay dues has to be fired by the employer.

The worker may have conscientious objections to joining a labor union but he must do so or, if he doesn't join, he must submit to a tax—the payment of the expenses of the union. He gives up his right to bargain as an individual and, under union shop agreements, he must pay a penalty besides in the form of dues assessments.

The controversy now has taken the form of what use is made of the dues. The Georgia court—with a strong hint taken from a recent decision of the U. S. Supreme Court of the United States to back up the ruling—now says that a man cannot be forced against his will in free America to pay tribute to a political party or to a private organization whose viewpoint he does not share.

11 Pints of Blood Donated at Menasha Aid Heart Surgery

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Eleven of the 20 pints of blood taken from emergency donors at the Menasha Red Cross blood bank were used during heart surgery on Judy Olson, Tisch Mills, Tuesday at University hospital, Madison.

Miss Olson's condition is reported good.

She had a defect between the two ventricles (the pumping chambers of the heart) and this area was closed while the patient used the artificial heart apparatus during the long operation. No additional blood transfusions have been given to the patient, although in some cases they are necessary after surgery.

Miss Olson was born with the heart defect, which doctors hoped she might outgrow.

When it was decided the operation should not be delayed, appeals went out from the Red Cross by way of radio and newspapers for blood donors with O-positive type blood. Tests were made on 111 persons at the Menasha blood center Monday before enough donors were found with the necessary blood type. Donors included three of

Repeal Frog Harvest Law

Limiting Take Would Destroy Oshkosh Business

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The Wisconsin Conservation commission today proposed to repeal a frog harvesting regulation which an Oshkosh frog dealer said would put him out of business.

The commission said it will hold hearings and later rescind a regulation now on the books which limits frog harvesting to 150 a day and closes the harvesting season on Oct. 15. The commission intended the rule to take effect in 1959. Traditionally the state has permitted the taking of frogs without a bag limit and through December.

E. G. Steinhilber, Oshkosh, told the commission this morning that his firm handles 50,000 to 75,000 a week and said the bag limit would destroy his business.

The major commercial frog areas in Wisconsin are in the Lake Winnebago section and in St. Croix county in northwestern Wisconsin.

Miss Olson's classmates at a beauty culture school in Green Bay and others from Green Bay, Kewaunee, Tisch Mills, Two Rivers and Valders.

The Menasha center was used because it was the center in operation nearest Kewaunee.

Miss Olson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Olson, Tisch Mills.
